

Johnny's Arm Knocks 'Go' Out of Chicago

LUIS APARICIO... among the fallen

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

COLISEUM, Los Angeles—It was the speed of the "go-go" White Sox against the marvelous quickness and accuracy of Johnny Roseboro's right arm, Johnny won.

And all the experts today are wondering what is to be done about it after the Dodgers became favorites to take the series with their 3-1 victory Sunday which gave them a two-to-one edge in the annual baseball classic. Although stunned after watching the Dodgers parlay a mere five hits and mighty relief pitching by Larry Sherry into Sunday's triumph before a record world series crowd of 92,294 fans, Chicago manager Al Lopez claimed this morning that he would stick with the same strategy that gave Chicago its first American League pennant in 40 years.

That indicated that Senor Lopez planned to have the Sox busy on the pilfering path again. This in spite of the fact that Roseboro, called in to fill Roy Campanella's equipment catcher skidded his car off an icy road last winter and ended up, with paralyzing injuries, has been knocking off would-be base-stealers with the consistency of a champion skeet shot pulverizing clay pigeons.

Roseboro hadn't yielded a stolen base for 26 games before Jim Landis finally pilfered second in the first inning Sunday when Johnny, forced to handle an outside pitch with Nellie Fox on third, decided against risking a throw. That was all for the base-burglars. Three more Sox tried it and Roseboro nabbed them all.

And among them was Luis Aparicio, reputedly the greatest base stealer of them all. Although Lopez said the Sox would keep charging, there was a suspicion here that the intellectual Latin was trying to fool a few people.

He must have acquired respect for Roseboro's arm and wondered if it wasn't time to again start using the sacrifice bunt, one of the main features of the normally low-scoring pale hose in their march to the AL flag.

Twice Sunday it appeared that Senor Lopez might call for a bunt. Each time he ignored the sacrifice and saw potential rallies snuffed out.

DODGERS LEAD SOX 4-0 IN THIRD INNING

LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles Dodgers pulled out of two tight situations in the first three innings and then pushed across two runs in the bottom of the third to take an early 4-0 lead in the fourth game of the World Series today.

Dodgers reeled off double plays in the first and third innings to cut down early Chicago White Sox threats before another sellout crowd of over 92,000.

Living Costs At Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living costs continued to rise during August, pushing the consumer price index up to a new high of 127.1 as of Oct. 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

As was the case during July higher food prices were the main impetus behind the September increase from the previous month's 126.4, also a record.

The rent section of the index was unchanged from a month earlier but home-ownership cost a little more as a result of property tax changes, the bureau said.

There were also slight increases in index sections covering clothing, attributed to higher prices for footwear, piece goods, men's hats and sweaters, and household operation, as a result of higher prices for coal, some furniture items and household utensils and equipment.

OLD PEAK TOPPED

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, had risen during July past the previous record of 126.3, reached Nov. 1, 1958. It went up a further seven-tenths of a point in August.

The bureau said the 2.7 cent rise in the food component of the index during August to 122.4 was almost all seasonal. It said it is also estimated that of the 1 per cent increase in the consumer price index during the two months, approximately 8 per cent was seasonal.

The index was 1.5 per cent higher Sept. 1 than a year earlier, when it stood at 125.6.

The August rise in living costs followed a July increase in wage figures.

FOOD GOES UP

Reflected in the food component were higher prices for beef, eggs, coffee, lettuce and celery, and declines for tomatoes and potatoes.

Wholesale prices were also up in August.

GAME ANIMALS FLEEING FIRE

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP)—Herd of elephants, lions and other big game today fled in the path of a 25-mile-long wall of flame sweeping across the ranch country of southeast Rhodesia.

The fire, largest in Southern Rhodesia's history, already has burned out 100,000 acres of ranch-land and ranchers today planned to evacuate thousands of head of stock from a further 200,000 acres threatened.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, when we, in the Holy Sacrament, commemorate the death of Thy dear Son and receive the blessed communion, grant that we may approach the holy table with true repentance, stout faith, deep thankfulness, and abiding love. Help us bear one another's burdens in perfect good will, that Thy peace which surpasses human thought, may keep us faithful to Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Hope that thing buzzin' aroun' th' moon doesn't rock it. M' Uncle Zeke, who ain't got much left on top, takes that new $1.50 haircuttin' charge as a compliment. East, West, Dodgers' best.

Hospital Wage Policy Defended

Victoria hospital officials today challenged a statement by William M. Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, that hospital workers are being exploited.

"I think most hospitals in B.C. try to give their employees salaries and benefits comparable with other groups," said Dr. E. N. Boettcher, medical superintendent at St. Joseph's Hospital.

"In Victoria at least we feel our employees are being paid at the prevailing rates."

"We have our financial difficulties, of course, but we try to give our workers the best wages and working conditions we can. And I don't think they are too badly off."

In an address to the B.C. Government Employees' Association at its annual convention Saturday, Mr. Black stated:

"The morale of our hospital workers is now at an extremely low ebb and the degree of exploitation was never so great."

Mr. Black is business agent for the Hospital Employees' Union, Local 189, representing workers in large hospitals on the lower mainland, the interior and upper Vancouver Island.

"I don't agree with Mr.

DR. E. N. BOETTCHER wages comparable

Black," said George Masters, administrator of Royal Jubilee Hospital. "I do not think the morale of our workers is low and I don't think they feel they are being exploited."

Mr. Masters said Mr. Black has no first-hand knowledge of conditions in Victoria hospitals "because we do not deal with his union."

SPACE SHIPS

Mrs. Don Morton, who with her son John, 13, watched them from their backyard described them as "very big and moving extremely fast." She said that two of them seemed to be revolving around each other. They were moving from north to east toward Crofton.

RIDING HORSE

Jack Wilson of Glenora, a foreman at the Crofton pulp mill, reported that his daughter, Gaynor, 14, had been riding a horse in a field near their home when one of the objects "came down over her." Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Gaynor and another daughter, all watched them as they sped north toward Crofton emitting a "piercing noise."

Mrs. Norman Howarth of Maple Bay, said her children first spotted the flying objects. As they moved north they gave off a bright, orange light. Mrs. Howarth, from England, said she had seen enough searchlights during the war to know "they sure weren't searchlights."

Strange Light Seen

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — At least six persons at Crooked-Creek, 90 miles southwest of Prince Albert, reported seeing a strange light Sunday morning. They said the light glided brightly through the sky for 90 minutes.

Scientists kept track of the space vehicle by its radio signals, which sound like notes from a violin.

The launching Sunday—second anniversary of the birth of the first Sputnik—was heralded on both sides of the Iron Curtain as another giant step in man's adventure into space.

"This means we have already entered the period of planned conquest of cosmic space and realization of a flight to the moon and the nearest planet," said astronomer Nikolai Barbashev, chairman of the Soviet Academy of Sciences planetary committee.

Alexandre Ananoff, a leading French astronautics expert, said, "The Soviet rocket proves they can fire a moon rocket with good chances of success any time they want."

EARTH CONTROL

The Russians indicated that some control of the new space station could be exercised from stations on earth. They announced, for example, that the "apparatus carried by the third Soviet space rocket" would be "switched on" for two hours today.

They predicted that the station—the third Soviet cosmic rocket shot aimed at the moon—would stay aloft for a long time because it will approach no closer than 1,240 miles to the earth.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., questioned use of the term "interplanetary station."

'FANCY TERM'

"I suspect they are using a fancy term to give people the impression they have something they do not," Whipple said.

He said Western scientists use the term to describe a big satellite which can be used to land on, live on and launch other rockets.

T. Keith Glennan, head of the United States National Aeronautics and Space Administration received word of the launching with considerable interest. He said:

"We recognize the significance of this effort to send a probe around the moon and extend our congratulations." There was a question as to whether the vehicle was meant to make one or more circuits around the moon or merely include it in a big orbit around the earth.

Moscow planetarium officials said the vehicle was in fact only another satellite that for one circuit would include the moon within its flight.

TRACKED IN BRITAIN

Britain's giant radio telescope at Jodrell Bank picked up signals from the Soviet "station" within minutes after Moscow sent a telegram pinpointing its position.

Jodrell Bank picked up signals again early today.

The radio telescope, with its great saucer-shaped antenna, is helping the Russians find out whether the rocket completes its trip around the back of the moon.

Moscow had cabled Jodrell Bank information on the expected position of the rocket.

The latest moon rocket sent Muscovites into ecstasy. Despite below-freezing temperatures they rushed out to the streets, congratulating one another.

The latest U.S. attempt in the moon race was set back 11 days ago when the giant Atlas Able rocket exploded during an engine test at Cape Canaveral.

It will be at least a month before another American try can be made.

MILITARY BASES OUT

Meanwhile, a Soviet scientist asserted Russia has no plans to build military bases on the moon.

Writing in Pravda, Z. K. Fedorov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said Soviet scientists are studying outer space "with a peaceful aim."

"No one in the U.S.S.R. is planning to fence off the region of the moon where the Soviet pennant flies and start building military bases there."

PM Warns U.S. Investors

DETROIT (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today sounded reservations by Canadians on the extent of American control of the Canadian economy.

Canadian concern is not anti-Americanism, the prime minister said in an address to the Economic Club of Detroit, but foreign investment in Canada must have "full regard to Canadian interests and Canada's economic destiny."

Mr. Diefenbaker invited his audience to imagine the positions reversed.

"You might then reflect what your reaction would be if about half of your manufacturing industry, and four-fifths of your petroleum industry, and about two-thirds of your mining and smelting industries were owned or controlled outside your country."

"In the current intensified and broadened competition for international markets, Canadians can scarcely regard with equanimity United States' head office policies, which may have the appearance of sharpening domestic export efforts while seeming to restrain, or failing to encourage, Canadian branch plants' participation."

Noting the lifting of import quotas of Canadian oil to the United States earlier in the year, the prime minister said Canada hopes similar action will be taken against import restrictions on lead and zinc.

Wheat was a more important item to the economy of Canada than the United States. The U.S. had moved only about one-third of its exports through normal commercial sales, the greater part being shipped under "non-commercial concessional terms."

How Long Will It Last?

Eleven thousand dollars. That's how much Life insurance the average insured family in Canada owns today. It seems to be a lot of money. It is.

But the hard fact is that this protection—even if all of it were on the family income-earner—would continue the average family's income for just about two years.

So here's a question to ask yourself: How would your family get along if left with the protection you have? Could they live on it until your youngest child graduates from university—or even high school?

Such questions need to be answered, sooner or later. Your Metropolitan Man can chart, and leave with you, the answers that fit your family's special circumstances.

Like most people, you may be surprised to learn how much protection you can have, and afford, when a tailor-made plan is worked out by a man trained to help families to do the most practical kind of financial planning.

Your Metropolitan Man will work out a plan that will take into account not only your Life insurance but also your Old Age Pension, savings and other assets.

Tories, Labor Neck and Neck In the Stretch

LONDON (AP) — The Labor and Conservative parties roared into the final lap of their election battle today, apparently running neck and neck on points.

Public opinion polls indicate that the socialists led by Hugh Gaitskell have closed the gap with Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservatives, who are seeking their third straight victory.

But with only three days to go before Thursday's balloting, a massive and decisive block of voters appears still undecided about its choice.

The Liberal newspaper News Chronicle's latest poll indicated that the two major parties were each backed by 37½ per cent of the 35,400,000 voters.

With the Liberal party supported by only four per cent the poll showed 20½ per cent had not made up their minds. But when these "don't knows" were asked which party they were more inclined to support, they put Labor ahead 42½ per cent to 41.

When the campaign opened just over two weeks ago, the national opinion polls gave Labor little chance of victory. The Conservatives' popularity then appeared sufficient to send them back with as big or bigger majority than the 52-seat margin they won in 1955. There are 630 seats in the House.

Slick Campaigning Slashes Lead

But Labor's vigorous campaign, their glittering promises of tax cuts and increased old-age pensions and some super-slick television electioneering combined to hack away at the Tory lead.

One newspaper survey didn't agree, however. The right-wing Sunday Dispatch surveyed 208 doubtful districts where neither party is firmly entrenched and concluded that the Conservatives would get back with a 51-seat majority.

Gaitskell wound up a 2,000-mile tour through the heart of industrial Britain Sunday night with an explosive speech that lambasted the Conservatives with some of the campaign's strongest phrases.

He called his opponents the "party of the past, the party of jingoism and international anarchy, the party of out-of-date colonialism, the party of Cyprus and Suez, the party of privilege, the party of snobs and the servile and the stuffed shirt . . . the party that must go—for the good of Britain and the welfare of the world."

Macmillan continued to campaign on the plank that his party had given Britain "peace and plenty" and that his personal diplomacy with the leadership of East and West promised more of the same.

A GUIDE FOR MUDSLINGERS

Liars vs. Liars

LONDON (UPI) — The King's English wasn't quite the language being used today in Britain's general election battle.

Many Britons found themselves unable to understand the political jargon.

Selecting phrases used by Conservative and Labor candidates, the London Daily Mail published "a guide for mudslingers."

Favorite phrases of Laborite candidates:

- "Jungle beast"—A Tory businessman.
- "Permanent delinquent"—A Tory.
- "Smear"—Anything unpalatable said by the other side.
- "Liar"—A Tory politician.
- "Swindle"—Any Tory act of Parliament.
- "Moron" and "Fathead"—Hecklers disagreeing with Labor party Deputy Leader Aneurin Bevan.
- "Hard-hitting"—Anything the other side calls a smear.

Favorite phrases of Conservative party candidates:

- "Police state"—Britain under the Laborites.
- "Smear"—Anything unpalatable said by the other side.
- "Liar"—A Labor politician.
- "Swindle"—A Labor promise.
- "Wildly inflationary prospectus"—The Labor platform.
- "Man needing his head examined"—A Labor party voter.
- "Hard-hitting"—Anything the other side calls a smear.

Noted the Daily Mail, "thank goodness both sides made a (pre-election) pact to keep the campaign honorable, non-personal and clean."

Canada to Join Euratom Tuesday

BRUSSELS, Belgium (CP) — Canada officially joins the European Common Market Tuesday in a co-operative effort to develop the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

In a ceremony, representatives of Canada and the six-nation European atomic energy commission sign two agreements launching the program.

The treaties call for joint research to develop heavy water reactors fueled by natural uranium—a field in which Canada is an acknowledged world leader.

Under the agreements, Canada and Euratom have agreed to put up $5,000,000 each to finance the co-operative operation.

SALES WAR

The signing injects a new competitive element into the nuclear sales war now being waged in the Common Market countries of France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Britain and the United States already have signed agreements with Euratom and hope to sell their versions of power reactors using enriched uranium as a fuel.

The competition will be keen. The Americans are generally expected to use their vast resources to subsidize the sale to Euratom of reactors they have developed.

This is a competitive element that Canada could hardly overcome.

NEW PROTECTION FOR YOUR FALL AND WINTER DRIVING

For motorists who normally use regular grade gasoline Esso now gives protection against stalls due to carburetor icing at no increase in price!*

For several years Esso Extra has provided complete protection against the two cold weather stalling hazards—carburetor icing and gas-line freezing. Many Canadian motorists need protection only against carburetor icing. This has now been provided for most cars in Esso!

*Annoying stalls can result, in weather as high as 55°F. from ice crystals in the carburetor. These stalls can be embarrassing because they usually occur, before your engine warms up properly, at times when your car has to stand idling at stop-lights and stop streets.

Decision on College Funds

THE VICTORIA COLLEGE Council-Chamber of Commerce special committee has asked Mr. Bennett if his Government would finance the extra costs of creating Victoria College anew at Gordon Head. Mr. Bennett has said no.

The premier is prepared to honor his prior commitment to match-dollar for dollar, any public subscription up to $1,500,000, — may even match collections up to $2,000,000 if that much is contributed. He is also prepared to see funds realized from a private sale of existing Victoria College buildings at Mount Tolmie, allocated to a university building fund. But he is not prepared to have the Government buy back its own buildings to use for other governmental purposes. He, like almost everyone else, favors the Gordon Head site, though he is not now willing to provide the extra funds required to develop it. The only obstacle to a university at Gordon Head is its costs.

The premier's position is clear. The problem of Victoria College, now enjoying university status, is obvious.

Lacking funds, it urgently requires more accommodation and must raise the money to get it. The College can add to what it already has in the way of buildings at Mount Tolmie at very much less expense than an entirely new project at Gordon Head would entail.

In other words, the realistic approach to the matter is to make immediate provision for extension at Mount Tolmie.

This does not mean that Gordon Head space will be abandoned, or be left unused. There are many developments which could be undertaken there. Space and some buildings exist for athletic activities. They will be brought into use as soon as possible. The area is also available for the construction of student residences when they can be financed. Eventually — in the indefinite future — the site could be used for academic structures, but the funds for the latter are not available now.

In the meantime the work of Victoria College is critically hampered by lack of facilities on the site at Mount Tolmie. If the institution is to do the job expected of it — an increasingly significant task as it moves into degree-granting status — it must have more facilities.

No one appears to have a few extra millions to transfer the College to Gordon Head, but it should be a matter of community determination to see that enough money is made available, with Government matching funds, to provide what is needed now.

If there is one constructive feature of the recent joint committee's meeting with the provincial cabinet it is that the Government has stated its position unequivocally. All connected with the College should now know where they stand.

The Main Issue

THE PROPOSED TEST OF THE benefits of fluorides, to be conducted in the schools by painting children's teeth with stannous fluoride during the coming year, may yield valuable information. But it is not a test of fluoridation as urged by the medical and dental authorities of this continent.

Painting teeth with fluoride compounds may slow decay and contribute to healthy mouths. But the process is expensive when conducted by practising dentists and it has less than half the effectiveness of the protection afforded by fluoridated water supplies. Fluoridation of the water supply costs only a few cents per person each year.

The two processes are fundamentally different. The benefit of fluoridated water is established before teeth even break through the gums. The fluoride salt is absorbed into the body and added to the calcium and other elements which go to form teeth. It hardens the chemical composition of the tooth and enables it to resist decay. Teeth so protected show 70 per cent less decay than others.

Painting teeth with fluoride compounds has much less effect. The schools program will be interesting and beneficial. But let it not be confused with the program of fluoridation of the water supply as advocated almost unanimously by Canadian and American physicians and dentists.

Artificially fluoridated water is enjoyed by some 35 million persons in North America today, along with another seven million whose drinking water has been similarly endowed by nature.

Victoria's water supply contains about one-tenth the amount of fluoride salt required for tooth protection. The whole fluoridation issue here is whether we shall rectify nature's deficit, and bring the local fluoride content up to the one-part-in-a-million which will assure our children of healthy teeth for life.

Waltzing Ahead on the Danube.

IF NORTH AMERICANS TEND to shroud Austria in the romantic atmosphere of Strauss waltzes, Austria, by a recent survey, has shown that it is doing more than come out of the Vienna Woods. It is emerging from the economic underbrush at a much faster rate than three-quarter time.

This progress is measured by the degree to which the country is increasing production.

Last year that increase was 2.9 per cent over the year before. West Germany, it might be noted, pushed production 3.3 per cent above 1957 and Italy 2.2 per cent.

The United States, according to the survey, fell behind. A 6.5 per cent production loss was shown, as the effects of the recession made themselves felt.

From 1953 to 1958 Austrian production rose 50 per cent—only two per cent less than West Germany and three per cent less than France.

In contrast to Austria's 50 per cent increase in the five-year period, Canada's production increase amounted to 17 per cent, while the United States recorded a gain of 7 per cent only, according to the relative figures.

It is customary for western observers to keep an enthusiastic economic watch on the Rhine. It is interesting to note the progress made on the "Blue" Danube.

'Give Me Your Tired . . .'

EXTERNAL AFFAIRS MINISTER Howard Green says Canada is prepared to accept "100 families or more" of the failing, tubercular inmates of Europe's refugee camps and hostels.

This announcement should appeal to the hearts of Canadians and ease the conscience of one of the world's rich nations.

There is a great difference in the proposal from the earlier procedure of inviting to Canada the healthy and able who gave promise of making a substantial contribution to the country.

Mr. Green's number is small, perhaps pitifully small in relation to the 30,000 in camps under the mandate of the United Nations high commissioner for refugees. But it is a start and an example which might inspire similar action in other countries.

These people in broken health will be transferred to beds in sanatoria. They will create no national health problem. If they make no tangible return for the assistance they are given, they will at least have helped to develop a sense of compassion in this country—a character without which no nation can be truly great.

In a voice that is not very strong, Canada is repeating the invitation inscribed at the foot of the Statue of Liberty in New York's Harbor: "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, the wretched refuse of your teeming shore . . . the homeless, tempest-tost . . ."

It is a gentle gesture that all can appreciate.

Live and Let Live

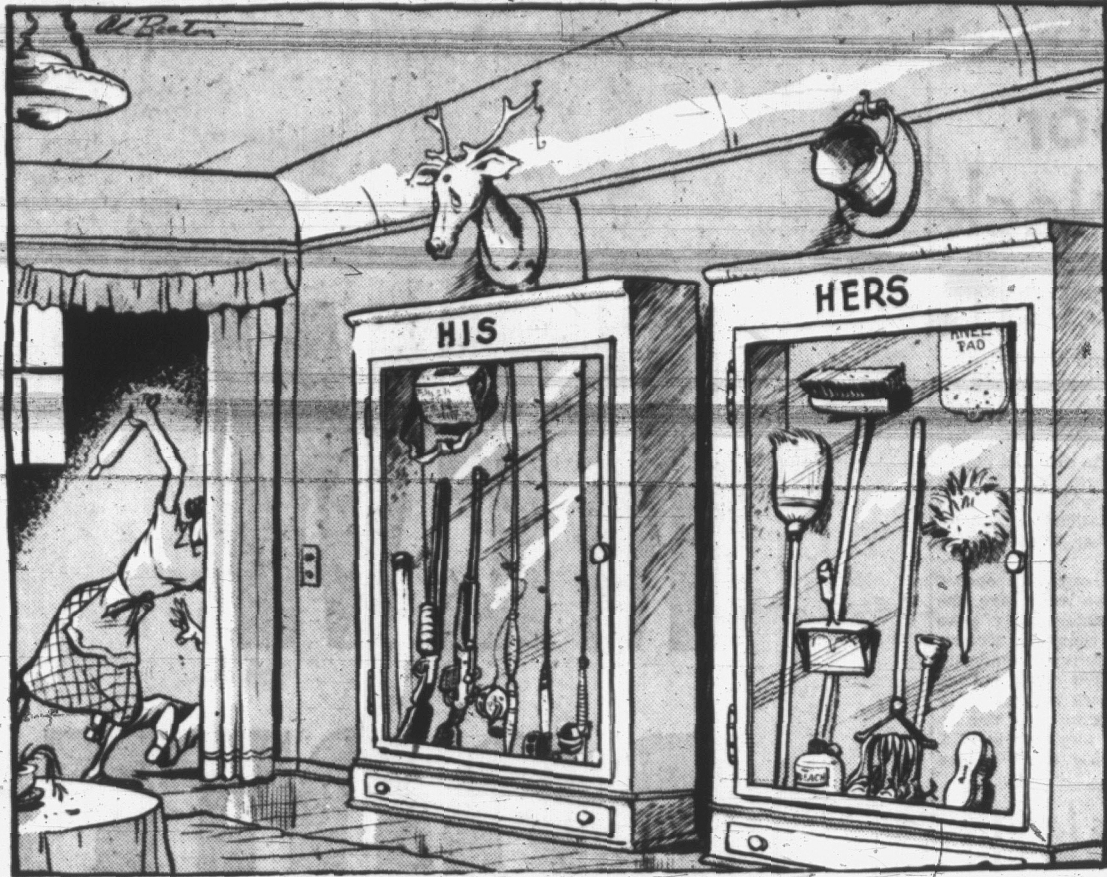

STATISTICS SHOW THAT three times as many men as women commit suicide in Canada, and observers misguidedly inclined may remark that "it figures."

On the other hand, the comparative picture is much more attractive, for our suicide rate of 11.7 per thousand for men and 3.3 for women is modest alongside the Austrian combined rate of 22.8, Denmark's 22.5, or Japan and Finland's 22.4.

Canada's murder rate is likewise satisfactorily low, 1.1 per 100,000 compared with Mexico's extremely high 36.3.

On the whole, Canada appears to be a very good place for a man to live—three times as good for a woman.

"But honey . . . I thought it was a cute idea . . ."

IN FOR LIFE

Little Grey Home In the Basement

By B. A. TOBIN

TIME was when a girl had to meet only two main qualifications for matrimony: was she beautiful, could she cook. Those two requirements still prevail today, although science has done much to provide aids for the non-cookers. But a third attribute is going to become necessary in the very near future, if the signs are to be believed. Prospective brides are going to be asked to say "no" before they are asked to say "yes." They're going to have to give a negative reaction to the question, "How about claustrophobia?"

The trend is plain to see. We are entering upon an age which may well go down in history as the second age of the troglodytes. I refer, of course, to the increasing interest of mankind in the bombproof shelter.

Already at least two young couples have spent their honeymoons in bombproof shelters. Admittedly these escapades were for publicity purposes, but it is increasingly evident that the underground shelter will become an integral part of our lives.

The air forces of the future will wear more in burrow than in hangar. Even now boots are becoming more important than flying helmets as items of equipment for air force men. Whatever you may have thought of RCAF types in the past, there'll be no one lower than an aviator in the next war—he'll be in the sub-sub-sub-basement, pushing buttons that send nuclear rockets into the stratosphere.

Several floors nearer the surface, but still well underground, will be the bulk of the civilian population—and most of these will be in their private family-size bombproof shelters, $298 fob Windsor, or the de luxe model in simulated plastic marble for $495.

—And that brings us right back to claustrophobia. Perhaps some of us never left it.

A news item last week gave the latest information on how we may be living soon if Nikita gets to mulling over that Los Angeles address of welcome again. The standard shelter, made of concrete, will be about six feet wide by nine feet long—just about bathroom size except that you may not be able to stand straight up in it.

You probably know what happens when a young child accidentally locks himself in the bathroom even for a few minutes. Imagine yourself locked in with him, along with his half dozen little brothers and sisters and your wife. And you'll stay in there for a minimum of fourteen days because one trip outside may cover you with lethal radioactive dust.

That dust is going to look pretty good by about the third day. Throw in a mother-in-law and a couple of neighbors you never particularly cared for, and a lot of folks are going to agree that a direct hit is the easiest way out.

To add claustrophobia to these horrors of war will be to make a mockery of the Geneva Convention, the United Nations Charter, and the whole concept of humanitarian instincts.

There are a lot of people who feel crowded even in a drill hall. They avoid elevators, telephone booths, cracker barrels and all but the largest hat boxes.

Imagine what it will be like for them to be cooped up in an oversized doghouse for two weeks, below earth, illuminated only by a fading flashlight, their used bean cans scattered around them, and wondering whether it will be safe to look out next week or the week after.

Imagine what it will be like to be cooped up WITH them.

More than one person reading this is going to look up and enquire of his or her spouse, in a deliberately casual way: how about claustrophobia?

But claustrophobia sufferers and their associates will not be the only victims.

There are a lot of folk who like to be by themselves. They love mankind but they loathe people. Locked in a nine-by-six with half a dozen other denizens for two weeks or more—well, it makes the threat of bacteriological and atomic horrors seem insignificant.

When the full realization of what bombproof-shelter-living could be breaks upon the world's consciousness, it will be one of the most effective anti-war influences ever launched. War will indeed have become too horrible to be waged—as they said when the war club, the bow, the musket, the cannon, the missile and the atomic bomb were invented.

But this time they'll mean it.

FROM WASHINGTON

De Gaulle and Algeria: Qualities Which Mark Him as Great

By WALTER LIPPMANN

ON Sept. 16 Mr. K. had just arrived in Washington and it was impossible for most of us to pay serious attention to anything else. Yet on that date Gen. de Gaulle made public his policy and plan for dealing with the Algerian question.

We can now pay serious attention to what he said, and it is quite evident that it will be long remembered. For in his address he took the decisive step without which there could be no hope of putting an end to the bitter and bloody civil war. He accepted the principle of self-determination by an open and equal election to be observed by the world.

The acceptance of this principle is, of course, only the first step towards a satisfactory solution of the problem. But without that first step no solution was possible.

In these elections the Algerians will have three choices.

They can secede and set up as an independent state.

They can vote to become an integral part of metropolitan France.

Or they can choose autonomy by departments, more or less in the manner of the Swiss cantons, within the economic, financial, and political structure of the recently formed French Community. This Community now consists of France itself and twelve republics in Africa and Madagascar.

It is this third choice that Gen. de Gaulle hopes the Algerians will make. But the Algerians are free to choose either of the other two options. And it is freedom to choose independence which has transformed radically the Algerian question.

The Algerians do not have to fight a war of independence. If independence is what they want, they can have it by their own free vote and by a ratifying vote by the French people.

As long as the option of independence did not exist, it was impossible for the United States to give public support to the Algerian policy of the preceding French governments. The best we could do in our desire not to offend the French government and French opinion was to abstain when the issue was put to a vote in the United Nations.

This situation has been altered completely by Gen. de Gaulle's offer of self-determination. From now on the U.S. position is bound to be, while we avoid meddling, to encourage the effort to work out practically the program he has proposed, and to use what influence we may have to support the Arabs, who, like M. Bourguiba of Tunisia, are working for a policy of moderation and conciliation.

It would not be proper for the United States government to give official support to any of the three options on which the Algerians will vote. But Americans can in their private capacity say what they are sure to think: that the best future lies in the third option—autonomy within the French Community.

It is best for the European settlers in Algeria, for the Moslem masses, for the neighbors of Algeria in Tunisia and Morocco, for the stability and prosperity of North Africa and of the Western Mediterranean. For Algeria alone does not have the resources and the technology to provide a decent future for its excessively large population. But the French Community does have the resources and the technology.

It is significant that the plan has not questioned the faith of Gen. de Gaulle and his government.

Many non-war related people on pensions in B.C. do so why should this group be discriminated against?

It would appear to have become a divided question between Ottawa and the B.C. government. We are often reminded that pension money comes from taxation, but who cares to remember that part of a pension check as a rule goes back in taxes, because pensioners must also pay taxes, including school taxes, which can devastate a pension budget just as much as sudden illness or recurrent illness.

The recent socking of the homes of pensioners, and others, by added taxation is proof of this; also a pension, related to war, often proves a long support of Canadian taxes. A few years ago Canada offered needed help to people from other lands, with free medical care.

In the years around 1920 our women nursed sick veteran husbands at home, on small disability pensions, as there appeared a lack of suitable hospitals and care.

Should the women, many now widows, have to renege the old worry on their own behalf because of costs in 1959? Granting a medical card to such a group in B.C. should be an honor and not a risk.

I am most interested in Bruce Hutchison's "Pursuit of Happiness" article of recent date.

In June, 1937, I heard Sir Winston Churchill speak in Oxford. First of all he warned us of Hitler's war, which of course nobody believed (except myself, as I had recently been in Germany). Then he went on to say that if we could abolish war we would be able to maintain a high standard of living, not only on a five-day, but on a four-day, or even a three-day week. But then he said we would have a new problem, "how to usefully employ our spare time." It's not brains, but character we need.

Luncheon Date

TWELVE o'clock, Doreen had said to her mother. Twelve o'clock, in the hotel lounge, and they'd go down to the coffee shop for lunch because it was cheaper than the dining room, and she was having an economy streak because she'd just paid for work on both the children's teeth.

Doreen's 12 was likely to be 12:30. Mrs. Carstairs knew from past experience. But, being a punctual woman herself, she reached the lounge at exactly five to twelve and chose a straight-backed wing chair from which she could see both the revolving entrance doors.

"This was what she enjoyed. Fine waiting and watching the people who passed through the lounge. It was just like a play, she thought, gazing after a masterful woman who strode towards the desk while a small parcel-laden husband pattered along behind her.

"Casper Milquetoast himself," said a woman sitting on the brocade sofa next to Mrs. Carstairs' chair.

Mrs. Carstairs started laughing, and suddenly felt she'd found a kindred spirit.

"I always watch the married couples," she said. "Sometimes the husband stalks ahead and the wife follows behind like an Indian Squaw. But not here. As you move up in the financial scale, the women become bossier and more assured. Have you noticed that?"

The other woman nodded. "Did you see the young couple just before Casper and his wife? So wrapped up in each other they didn't even know that the rest of us existed."

Ruth Enke

"Time and marriage will change that," said Mrs. Carstairs with cheerful cynicism. "Oh, dear, what am I saying?"

"I don't quite know," but it's most amusing," said the other woman, who was really beginning to enjoy herself. "I often look at couples and wonder whatever made her marry him, or what on earth he saw in her. Do you do that?"

Mrs. Carstairs nodded. "Yes. And often when I was younger, that is, I'd look at a man and think how dreadful it would be to see that face on the pillow every morning for the rest of my life."

"I hope it didn't show in your face," said the woman.

"I hope so, too," said Mrs. Carstairs, almost giggling. "Are you staying here?"

"No. I'm just waiting for my husband," said the woman.

What would the husband be like? Mrs. Carstairs wondered, and was glad she hadn't said that she always made a point of watching wives who were waiting for their husbands. So often the husband was quite unlike what she'd imagined from observing the wife. And it was amusing, too, to watch how they greeted one another.

"Mother, dear, I'm late."

Suddenly Doreen was standing before her. Mrs. Carstairs gathered up her gloves and handbag and the grey paper bag that held the talcum powder and the corn plasters she'd bought at the drug store.

"Goodbye," she said to the unknown woman. "I've so enjoyed talking to you."

"Who was she?" Doreen asked as they went down to the coffee shop.

"I don't know," said Mrs. Carstairs. "But she was fun. And now, dear, do tell me about Bobby's tonsils. I was worrying about them in the night."

Talks Likely This Winter

(NEW YORK (AP))—Henry Cabot Lodge, United States ambassador to the United Nations, says he believes Premier Khrushchev's recent tour of the United States paved the way for a summit meeting this winter.

Lodge, who accompanied Khrushchev throughout the U.S., said Sunday on a television program that he detected an "evolution" in the Soviet line.

Ike and Mac 'At Odds' on Summit

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—President Eisenhower's spokesman is saying one thing and Britain's prime minister another about how summit conference prospects stand. But there is no indication of any real conflict.

It appears to boil down to a matter of the background against which the British and United States statements were made during the weekend.

The first came from Prime Minister Macmillan, who is engaged in a hot national election contest.

The prime minister, whose campaign strategy underscores his advocacy of an East-West summit meeting, told a press conference that such a meeting

"seems to be set except for the time and place and the people who will represent Britain."

At Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here, press secretary James Hagerly said flatly that there has been no agreement yet to hold a summit conference.

Hagerly's statement was understood to have been made in reference "and there will not be until we hear from our allies."

Actually, Macmillan said nothing about a formal agreement. He simply said in effect that he believed there will be a high-level meeting.

Hagerly's statement was understood to have been made in reference "and there will not be until we hear from our allies."

Until the government does hear formally from de Gaulle, who in Eisenhower's own words "can be difficult, there almost certainly will be no U.S. statement dealing with the prospects for a summit session."

with France's President de Gaulle, specifically in mind.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Winston 'Late Developer'

LONDON—In terms of education, Sir Winston Churchill has been described as "the classic case of the late developer."

The phrase was used by Dr. Robin Pedley, senior lecturer in education at the University of Leicester, when joining in the current criticism of the 11-Plus Examination.

The 11-Plus, though roughly equivalent to the entrance exam for high school in Canada, goes further in that it grades the children into academic, technical or trade types and each child is sent to a school specializing in one of these three categories.

The 11-Plus Examination is on the point of collapse, says Dr. Pedley, because selection at 11 has proved to be premature and inaccurate, and he quotes what Sir Winston has written of his own entrance exam, to get into Harrow.

"I wrote my name at the top of the page. I wrote down the number of a question, 'Figure one.' After much reflection I put a bracket round it, but thereafter I could not think of anything connected with it that was either relevant or true. Incidentally, there arrived from nowhere in particular a blot and several smudges."

"I gazed for two whole hours at this sad spectacle and then merciful ushers collected my piece of foolscap with all the others and carried it up to the headmaster's table. It was from these slender indications of scholarship that the headmaster drew the conclusion that I was worthy to pass into Harrow."

Best crack I've heard about English beer: An American tourist in our local called the publican over and said: "There's something that puzzles me about these pubs of yours."

"Oh, yes," said the publican, "and what's that?" "How do you keep your beer warm in the winter?" asked the American.

One-Man Helicopter

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The Little Zipster, billed as the world's smallest one-man helicopter designed for private use, was demonstrated here Sunday by its developer, Igor Bensen. The 450-pound craft, using conventional automotive gasoline, is free from dependence on airfields. It can take off and land vertically with no ground roll. It will sell for about $2,000 in kit form.

At this time of year, the plants are dug and put into large pots or wooden boxes with plenty of good garden soil.

While the leaves remain in a growing condition, the plant should be in a light, warm place where frost will not penetrate at night.

After they have gradually died down, the roots, which are fleshy, should remain in the pot or box of soil practically dry all winter in a temperature around 40 to 50 degrees F.

Started into growth indoors during early March, the canna should be encouraged to make plenty of headway in the pot before being planted outdoors the first week of June.

roots are hardy here in our normal winters.

By the side of a small pool, nothing is lovelier for late June than a planting of calla. The leaves are just as ornamental as the flowers, and simply repay the preparing of the ground with compost, bonemeal and coarse sand.

The canna contrasts gaily with the calla, having large brilliant red, orange or yellow blooms clustered on a stem. Individually, the flowers faintly resemble those of the gladiolus, but are rounder and less formal.

Leaves are not the least ornamental part of the canna, for the darker colors emerge from huge purplish leaves which clasp the stout flower stem. The yellow varieties and the rarer pink ones have green leaves scarcely less ornamental.

Cannas are not frequently seen here, for our summers

Dock Layoffs Fail to Slow Employment

Employment here has held up well despite layoffs in the two local shipyards the past two weeks.

The National Employment Office said at mid-September there were 2,138 men registered for employment, and only 10 more at month's end.

Renewed activity in construction since settlement of the IWA strike has absorbed a considerable number of building tradesmen and helped stabilize the employment picture.

There are 132 less men seeking work than during the same period a year ago.

The over-all figures, for men and women, are also below last year at this time with 3,303 looking for employment, 210 less than Oct. 2, 1958.

Calla Differs From Canna

Two plants with such similar names that we may be forgiven if sometimes they become mixed in our minds are calla and canna.

In appearance and culture they are quite dissimilar, so that the confusion, if any, need be short-lived.

The calla is sometimes known as the white arum, and is useful grown in pots for early spring bloom indoors.

For this purpose the roots should now be in large pots and growing in a light airy place under shelter for the winter.

Many gardeners do not make use of this strongly scented plant for garden decoration, perhaps not realizing that the roots are hardy here in our normal winters.

Prices See-Saw In Dull Day

Nothing to indicate a trend was seen in trading today on Canadian exchanges where business was light with most issues moving up and down, changing positions almost every hour.

Goods managed a rally in late afternoon, trading and closed moderately strong. The U.S. court ruling that permitted Du Pont to keep its General Motors stocks with out voting them was reflected on Wall Street where both issues benefited.

On the Canadian list, Dome Mines gained 1/2, while Alum. was down 1/2.

Canada Cannot Fill U.S. Need Of Natural Gas

WASHINGTON (AP)—American gas consumers must look to gas produced from wells in the United States for much of their future supply.

This is the belief the Phillips Petroleum Company expressed late last week before the Federal Power Commission in a gas rate argument.

If there were a cheap substitute for natural gas available, the statement said, "obviously we would not have to worry about a future supply of gas."

But, it said, there is no such substitute.

"Our evidence was unchallenged that, although the vast supplies of oil shale, tar sands and foreign oil are available for future use of the motorists, they offer no supply for the gas consumer in competition with pipelines."

Canada's proven gas reserves, Phillips counsel said, are about 10 per cent of those of the U.S. The population also is about 10 per cent and its industry is growing rapidly.

"We will get some gas from Canada, but it will be insignificant as compared to our tremendous demand," the commission was told.

"So it is clear that the gas consumers of the United States must look to gas produced from wells in the United States."

ACROSS B.C.

In Traffic;
One Burned

(Compiled from CP)
Four persons were killed in B.C. weekend traffic crashes, while a fifth died of burns received in an industrial accident.

Two men were killed and two injured in a head-on collision of two cars at Cambie Saturday.

Dead are Vincent A. Cherbo, 42, and Emmanuel Johanson, 43, both of Malakwa. Cherbo's son Ricky, 18, was in hospital suffering broken arms, cuts and bruises. Also in hospital was Allan L. Wood of Siamous, B.C., alone in the second car.

In Surrey, Sigvald Hauge of Wenatchee, Wash., Sunday was charged with criminal negligence in connection with the death of Mrs. Gladys Ryan, 46, killed Saturday night in a two-car head-on collision.

Mrs. Denis Jim, about 72, was killed south of the Okanagan centre of Enderby when struck by a car while walking along a highway.

In New Westminster Jack Morgan, 30, died in hospital Sunday from burns to 100 per cent of his body received when a blast furnace exploded at Port Coquitlam Thursday.

MURDER CHARGES

VANCOUVER — Raymond Schultz, 31, was charged with murder Sunday in the slaying of a Vancouver woman in an east-end apartment.

Police identified the woman as Lois Rivers, 35. She was shot in the face once with a .45-caliber pistol and died en route to hospital.

Schultz was picked up by police five blocks from the scene of the shooting. They said he had knocked at a stranger's door and asked the residents to call police.

The shooting occurred during a drinking party at the apartment.

U.R.C. HONORS

VANCOUVER — A Canadian editor and a distinguished British-born scientist will receive honorary degrees at the University of British Columbia fall convocation, October 20.

Dr. John Everett Robbins, editor-in-chief of Encyclopedia Britannica, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. Sir Hugh Taylor, who contributed to the development of the atomic bomb, will receive a doctorate in the sciences.

POLIO MERCY TRIP

QUESNEL — An air force mercy flight will bring two of three members of a Quesnel family who have been stricken with polio to Vancouver today.

The RCAF flew in respirators Sunday for two sisters, aged 11 and 13, who were believed to have bulbar polio. Their nine-year-old brother has spinal polio but his condition is not believed to be serious.

SCHOOL BOARD BROKE

CLOVERDALE — The Surrey school district, which includes this Fraser Valley community, has wired Education Minister Peterson that it has no money to pay outstanding bills.

C. D. Christian, secretary of the school board, said a bank has refused to extend the payment date of a temporary loan of $1,400,000.

The board had no funds to pay bills or the note.

OBSERVE FIRE PROTECTION WEEK 52 WEEKS A YEAR!

SCHOOLS ENCOURAGED TO FIGHT MENACE

Fire Competitions Planned

Victoria fire fighters, appalled by the deaths of 217 children by fire in Canada last year, are aiming a knockout punch at fire by appealing to schools during Fire Prevention week starting today.

In Victoria city and Oak Bay particularly, this year's campaign goes to the schools with the first phase of a new approach — on a competitive basis — planned to maintain interest in fire prevention the year around.

Victoria and Oak Bay members of Local 530, International Association of Fire Fighters have originated a contest with points for fire drills, inspections and general attitude, and will present two challenge trophies to winners at the end of the month.

Competition will be among the 38 public and private schools, including kindergartens, within the corporate limits of Victoria and Oak Bay. Above a suitable age, level, lectures also will be given.

"Each year a new crop of pupils enters school. It is our plan to place before these new students especially, along with the seniors, the teachers and the parents, information and drills on good fire practices," IAF's spokesman Art Leason said.

FIRST STEP
"We know we're not going to stamp out fires for all time, but this is a start, a first step, to make young children fire safety conscious early. The program we visualize will develop from there."

Among statistics supplied by the joint fire prevention publicity committee of the Association of Canadian Fire Marshals and Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs is the sobering number of youthful deaths by fire.

From B.C. and the Yukon to the Maritimes, a total of 529 people lost their lives in 1958, the Dominion Fire Commissioner reports.

IN SCHOOLS
The children who died numbered more than all those lost during the peak years of polio, and of all the fires in Canada and the U.S. last year, 12 of them daily were in schools.

In Saanich, firemen will give lectures and drills in the schools and conduct a poster campaign in stores.

In Oak Bay and Victoria, besides the usual inspections of stores, public buildings, plants, warehouses, apartments and hotels, there will be the special school campaign.

Esquimalt plans no special program.

"It's fire prevention week 52 weeks of the year here," a spokesman said.

Fire Chief G. A. Gardner of Sidney hopes to speak to close to 800 school students during the week, and Sidney merchants will have window displays.

A poster competition is being sponsored in Central Saanich schools, with prizes of $5, $3 and $2 offered. Winners will attend the annual banquet of the volunteer fire department.

Fire trucks will visit schools during the week.

Colwood Fire Department started observance of the week Sunday by joining forces with the naval fire service for a parade through the district. Firemen visited business establishments today, and will inspect Colwood and Saanichton schools Tuesday.

Thursday they will attend a special first-aid course to be given by St. John Ambulance Brigade, and on Saturday they will join with the naval service again for a parade through Belmont Park.

NEW STRIKE POSSIBLE

Dues Increase Refused By B.C. Civil Servants

The two-hour strike of B.C. civil servants last March cost the B.C. Government Employees' Association $11,067, it was disclosed at the association's 16th annual convention Saturday.

F. W. Howarth, retiring treasurer, said strike costs and loan will be paid out of the association's $173,000 budget for the coming year.

Mr. Howarth said help was received from the Ontario Government Employees' Association, which donated $1,000, and the Saskatchewan association, which made an interest-free $5,000 loan.

Several delegates argued that, with the possibility of another strike in the future, the association should budget for a larger surplus than the $3,000 contained in the association's budget.

But the majority voted against a motion that monthly dues for members be increased from $1.50 to $2.

A goat, chained nearby, ate four of the paintings while the exhibit was unattended.

First Woman Air Passenger Dead Here

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles F. Gray, widow of a former mayor of Winnipeg, will be held at St. Luke's Church at 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Gray died here Sunday. Born in Orillia 75 years ago, Mrs. Gray was the daughter of John Curran, publisher of the Orillia News Letter, the Cobalt Nugget and the Gravenhurst Banner.

For many years before coming to Victoria, Mrs. Gray took an active part in the public affairs of Manitoba where her husband served as mayor of Winnipeg in 1919 and 1920 and as comptroller of the city for four years.

She was the first woman in Manitoba to fly as a passenger. She first flew in 1919 with famed First World War aviator and bush pilot, Capt. "Wop" May, DFC, in a Curtiss biplane. She also headed the Navy League Chapter, IODE, for many years in Winnipeg.

In Victoria she belonged to the Women's Canadian Club and attended St. John's Church.

She is survived by a son, H. A. Gray of Winnipeg, two daughters, both of Victoria, Mrs. T. O'D. Walton (Avis), and Mrs. Eric Learoyd (Eileen); two brothers, Dr. Ernest Curran and Jack Curran, both of Orillia, Ont., and seven grandchildren.

The praying mantis, a relative of the grasshopper, was brought to the U.S. from China in the 1890s to help gardeners.

Training Plan Favored

The delegates voted in favor of a new training plan for aides in provincial mental hospitals who wish to qualify as psychiatric nurses.

The new executive was empowered to meet the provincial government at an early date to discuss this plan.

Most delegates agreed that it should enable aides to take further training without losing priority and without taking the 50 per cent pay cut involved in becoming a trainee psychiatric nurse under the present plan.

"There is a shortage of trained staff in our mental hospitals at present," said R. B. Hilton, of the Colquitz branch.

"Not many years ago, our mental hospitals in British Columbia were graded fourth in North America. Now they have dropped to 18th place and they are still dropping."

Large Staff Turnover

Mr. Hilton said the turnover among staff is almost as great as among patients.

"Fifty per cent of our staff is coming and going all the time," he declared. "Something must be done to improve this sorry state of affairs."

William Low, of Essondale Mental Hospital, said the standard of trained personnel in provincial mental hospitals had been dropping steadily since the existing training plan was introduced by the government.

"There will be trouble if we do not take action soon," he said.

The convention wound up with a dance sponsored by the Victoria branch, in the Empress Hotel, Saturday night.

"It was a spirited convention and we covered a good deal of ground," said Larry G. Huck, of the Victoria branch.

The 1960 convention will be held at Vancouver October 7 and 8.

Bomber Plant Fire Damage $5 Million

CHADDERTON, England (AP)—A mysterious blaze that swept through part of a huge factory turning out atom bombers for the RAF was estimated Sunday night to have caused $1,800,000 ($5,000,000) damage.

But owners of the A. R. Roe plane said the fire would not affect production of the giant Vulcan delta-wing atom bomber and the new Avro 748 twin-engine turboprop airliner.

The fire, accompanied by explosions that tossed girders 50 feet into the air, broke out at 9 p.m. Saturday night. It took firemen three hours to put out the flames roaring through a 300-yard bay containing drawing offices and joiners' shops.

Cause of the fire was a mystery. "The possibility of sabotage must always be considered," Dobson said, "but we have no reason to believe that it was sabotage in this case."

The praying mantis, a relative of the grasshopper, was brought to the U.S. from China in the 1890s to help gardeners.

Based on the premise that carelessness is our greatest enemy, education our greatest need, the Imperial Tobacco Company has, for the past ten years, carried out an educational campaign against fires caused through carelessness.

If this program of fire prevention and conservation has resulted in one less disastrous fire; if it has caused even a few people to take greater care, then it has been successful.

Airliner Cracks Up In Fields, 39 Escape

TORONTO (CPI) — A Trans Canada Air Lines Viscount carrying 35 passengers crashed short of its runway at Malton airport Saturday night, narrowly missing a hydro transformer which would have exploded and enveloped the aircraft in flames.

The plane snatched into a muddy field 400 feet short of the runway, clipped a pole and tore through a fence, bounced across a water reservoir embankment, slithered across a road and a ditch, and stopped short of an airport building.

All 39 aboard were shaken up but only four persons including two of the four crew members still were in hospital today. The plane's instrument nose cone was ripped off, its two port turbo-prop engines were torn from the wing and its tail was damaged.

The plane was on a Montreal-Toronto-Winnipeg flight but 28 of the passengers were to have left it in Toronto. The crash occurred in a blinding rainstorm but its cause is not known.

Fuel Sprays

A transport department official said if the plane had hit the transformer it would have been a miracle if anyone escaped alive. Gallons of low volatile fuel sprayed from the plane but there was no fire.

The plane was piloted by Capt. W. J. Harry Bell, 37, of Wildfield, Ont., who was attempting an instrument landing. He suffered severe shock and had not been interviewed by investigators today.

Mrs. Christine Scott, 22, a stewardess who was making her last scheduled flight, suffered cuts and shock when she was tossed down the aisle. She is still in hospital.

Keith Russell, 33, production supervisor for the CBC's farm and fisheries telecasts, suffered a compression fracture of the spine. Norm Garriock, assistant supervisor, suffered back injuries. They were reported in fair condition.

Mr. Russell said he felt a bump as the plane set down and thought that it was just a rough landing. "But the second bump was really rough," he said. "It happened so fast we didn't know what was wrong."

No Panic

Stewardess Glenda Sjöberg, 23, of Nanaimo, B.C., said there was no panic even though it was found the emergency door was jammed.

Before the final impact she felt a "floating sensation," said Miss Sjöberg, a former Miss Nanaimo and Miss B.C. Lions beauty queen.

The passengers broke some of the windows and climbed out. The first ones out waited at the side of the plane and assisted the others.

Miss Sjöberg said the plane was coming in for a routine landing and she didn't know why or how it happened.

The last person out of the plane, she ran to a nearby service station to get help and then returned to aid the passengers.

Survivor Relates Air Epic

STRANRAER, Scotland (AP) — The story of how an ace British test pilot bailed out at 40,000 feet from a supersonic jet, came down unsighted in a lonely stretch of sea and calmly floated 30 miles to shore in a rubber dinghy was told Saturday.

Johnny Squier, the 39-year-old pilot, described part of the epic from his hospital bed.

Other details were given by the English Electric Aviation Company, makers of the plane. But the full story remained untold because of rigid security.

One thing was sure—two miracles happened to Squier. He survived a terrifying leap through space from a 1,700-miles-an-hour plane flying at supersonic speed.

And he escaped drowning after his desperate leap plunged him 30 feet beneath the surface of the Irish Sea and a big air-sea search failed to find him.

LOST RADAR TRACK

Squier set out Thursday in a swept-wing P-1 Lightning jet on a test flight off the west coast of Scotland. Technicians watched the Lightning's "blip" moving steadily across a radar screen. Then at 11:25 a.m. local time it suddenly vanished.

No public announcement has been made on what happened to the plane — although English Electric officials confirmed there was no explosion.

Squier himself took up the story from that point.

"I pulled the blind and after the canopy went the seat fired and shot me out. I was then somewhere in the region of 40,000 feet.

NOT SO SIMPLE

"I came down," he said simply, "and eventually hit the water."

Company officials indicated this was the understatement of the year. Squier dropped for 30,000 feet before his parachute opened automatically.

"I went about 30 feet into the water," continued the balding flier who was a pilot in the Battle of Britain.

"I inflated my Mae West—an inflatable life jacket—which promptly pulled me back to the surface.

"There I got rid of my parachute. I opened the dinghy pack, inflated it and after a struggle, managed to get aboard.

Squier paddled to the coast and found sanctuary at a private school.

2 families!

One family, he digs for will live in a unit of a housing project for which he is excavating the foundation. The other family is his own — and includes four children. He is a good "digger" for dollars and his wife manages them well. So their family expenditures are kept in line with the family pay cheque.

Public works cover a lot of ground. The budget of the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa is in the millions of dollars . . . and his department is only one of many.

Money for all departments of government comes through the Minister of Finance who gets it largely in taxes from Canadians such as you. When more money is spent than is collected in taxes, government must borrow from you . . . or else create new money. The creation of new money is one factor that leads to inflation . . . which means your dollar buys less and less.

The government has been spending more than you have been paying in taxes. To narrow the gap between income and expenditures, new taxes have been imposed.

The next step should be to reduce expenditures, or at least hold the line. Undertaking new commitments — adding new welfare or other services — will only make it that much more difficult to pay our way. Tell your M.P. at Ottawa that since you are trying to save, you expect government to do the same.

You also help when you save more by means of life insurance, savings deposits, and the purchase of government bonds. Your savings help to create a SOUND dollar; and this, in turn, helps to create job security for you and more jobs for other Canadians.

Ab McDonald, Dickie Moore, Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard and Andre Pronovost also scored for the cup champions.

Don McKenney of Boston Bruins scored for the All-Stars in the second period when they were trailing 2-0.

What a Difference A Month Makes!

By Canadian Press
A month ago, the Big Four football league could have been nicknamed the Big Two, Hamilton and Montreal.

But that was a month ago. The change in things was evident Saturday in two upset wins by former tail-enders.

Ottawa Rough Riders hammered out a 27 victory over the league-leading Hamilton Tiger-Cats right in the Ticks' home yard. And Toronto Argonauts visited Montreal to whip the Alouettes 37-14.

Ottawa, in last place since the season began, robbed Hamilton of a chance to clinch one of the three playoff spots.

ARGOS SOLID

Odds makers in Montreal who had made the Als favorites quickly learned that Argos' 39-9 win at Toronto a week earlier was no fluke.

The Toronto ground attack carved open the Montreal line with Al Dorow calling the shots at quarterback and Cookie Gilchrist, Dick Shatto and Bobby Kuntz racing for big gains.

Gilchrist alone counted 19 points to take over leadership in the league scoring race. He scored two touchdowns, running 37 yards for one and 69 for the other, kicked four converts and booted a field goal.

At Hamilton 20:12 saw the Riders win spoil Vince Scott Appreciation Day, honoring the veteran Ticat lineman for 10 years of service with the defending league champs.

The Riders protected an early lead with hard hitting defensive work and a crushing ground assault.

Old Hands Sparkle In Rugger Openers

Oak Bay's White squad and Navy recorded comparatively easy triumphs as the Victoria Rugby Union lifted the curtain on a new season Saturday.

The Whites, sparked by a pair of veterans, defeated Oak Bay Reds 17-6 while the Sailors turned on Royal Roads, 13-5.

A third scheduled game between James Bay and Victoria College Vikings was postponed at the request of the scholars, who felt lack of conditioning and insufficient practice would have resulted in a poor showing.

TWO DROP GOALS

Veterans Tom McIlveen and Don Burgess paced the Whites at Windsor Park. McIlveen accounted for two tries while Burgess kicked a pair of rare drop goals. A penalty goal by Dave Price and Ernie Alexander's try rounded out Whites' scoring.

Stu Wright and Norm Dixon each scored tries for the Reds. Navy's attack at Colville Road Park was paced by Jim Dockree, who scored a try and two converts. Team captain Eric Sadler and B. Reilly also scored tries for the winners while J. Croft accounted for Royal Roads' try, which was converted by W. Hutchinson.

Lions Eying Second Rung

By The Canadian Press

There is more than the usual interest in the two games being played in the Western Inter-provincial Football Union tonight.

Games go in the extreme time they got hold of the ball after the kickoff. Edmonton's Normie Kwong and Johnny Bright shared the scoring honors with two touchdowns each, both on short runs. Jackie Parker and Joe Bon Smith each scored one. Parker also kicked one field goal and five converts.

Riders score came off touchdowns by Bob Ream and Ken Carpenter, both on passes from Don Allard. Reg Whitehouse converted both and Tex Schreiner was credited with a single for the final point.

The win moved Esks into a second-place tie with the Lions with 14 points, two off the pace set by Winnipeg. Both second-place teams have won seven and lost four of their 11 starts.

A B.C. win tonight would put Lions in sole possession of the second position.

PLAYOFF FIGHT
In Winnipeg, Calgary Stampers will be fighting grimly to remain in contention for the third and last playoff spot.

The outcome of the B.C. Saskatchewan game won't make much difference to Roughriders. Their loss to Edmonton Saturday ran their winless streak to 10 in 10 starts, equalling the record set by B.C. last year.

New coach Frank Tripucka's presence on the bench seemed to inspire Riders to some degree Saturday. They turned in a surprising first-half performance but couldn't hold the pace after scoring a touchdown and a convert the first

Hurling Champs

DUBLIN (AP)—Waterford came from behind to win the all-Ireland senior hurling championship Sunday by defeating Kilkenny by three goals and 12 points (total 21 points) to one goal and 10 points (13 points) at Croke Park, before 80,000 fans.

LAOLARA, Sardinia—Piero Rolli, 116", Italy, defeated Federico Scarponi, 116", Italy (6", Scarponi disqualified).

Groom's Birthday Date Chosen For Double-Ring Wedding Vows

The groom's birthday, October 3, was chosen as wedding date for the double-ring ceremony which united Doris Mae Grossmith and Dr. Donald James Farquhar, Saturday evening.

A model gown of ivory brocade satin, hand-painted with pink roses, in floor-length, was chosen by the bride. Back of the trapeze-style bodice fell in folds from the neckline into a chapel train. Bodice front was cut on empire lines, with a portrait neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her French illusion shoulder-length chapel veil was held by a pearl tiara. The prayer book she carried was topped with white stephanotis and sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was her maternal grandmother's pearl crescent necklace.

She was escorted up the aisle by her father, St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, decorated for the fall festival season, formed a lovely setting for the wedding. Clergyman was Rev. Hywel Jones. As soloist, Michael Rogers sang "The Lord's Prayer," Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Grossmith, and the groom is the son of Mrs. J. Farquhar and the late Mr. Farquhar of Vancouver.

Identical gowns of coral crystal charm taffeta, fashioned with trapeze backs similar to the bride's gown, were worn by the attendants, Mrs. Ian Edgar, Mrs. Don Pimlott and Miss Ina Corbett. Their "Mr. John" hair bows were trimmed with matching coral veils and they carried cascade bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Grossmith chose a beige lace and chiffon gown with French lame brocade sheath style gown made by her mother was worn by the bride as she left the reception. It was topped with a muskrat fur jacket, and she wore a turban style hat en tone with the dress. Her corsage was white gardenias.

Following a honeymoon in the United States the couple will make their home in Vancouver.

Shower Party

The South Salt Spring Women's Institute honored Mrs. Robert Hawkins, nee Dolores Hulsh, at a shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Akerman of Fulford. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Akerman and Mrs. F. Hollings. Mrs. Hawkins was recently married in Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria.

At Wedding

Out of town guests attending the recent marriage of the former Miss Helen P. Brown and Mr. Angus A. Macdonald included Miss Marie Whalen of Chilliwack and Mr. and Mrs. R. Wall, Simon Macdonald, Leslie Joss and Ray Renning, all of Vancouver.

BUT RED CHINA UNMOVED

Peace 'Sacred Duty'—Mr. K

TOKYO (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev wound up a five-day visit in Red China Sunday with a parting declaration that Russian Communists consider it their "sacred duty" to liquidate the cold war.

He flew to Vladivostok, the far eastern capital of the Soviet Union.

Hammering publicly for the third and last time during his visit on the theme of international relaxation of tensions, the Soviet premier said, with Chinese Communist party leader Mao Tse-tung listening:

"At present, the forces of peace are stronger than ever. There is full actual possibility to bar the road to war. The common people of the entire world are becoming ever more confident that with the growth of the might of the world socialist system it will be possible forever to eliminate war as a means of solving international disputes."

SACRED DUTY

"That is why we Communists of the Soviet Union consider it as our sacred duty, our primary task, to utilize these favorable conditions, to utilize all possibilities in order to liquidate the cold war, and guarantee the triumph of the cause of peace on earth."

Nowhere in his closing plane-side remarks did the Soviet leader say that his often stubborn Chinese hosts had given their backing to the Soviet peace campaign.

This omission, coupled with the fact that Peking radio made no mention of a joint communique of the type usually issued at the end of such visits, appeared to indicate he had failed to win Mao over to any major move aimed at lowering the temperature of the cold war.

PLUGS PEACE

When he arrived last Wednesday and in a subsequent speech at a Chinese reception, Khrushchev pointedly called on the entire socialist camp to do their bit in easing tensions.

His final speech made no further allusions to this. He spoke only of the Russian party's peace campaign and said that Chinese-Soviet friendship was "the invincible stronghold of peace."

Although the Chinese gave their approval to the communique signed by Khrushchev and President Eisenhower last month, they said the United States was forced into renouncing the use of force in international disputes.

Red Chinese speeches, editorials and news stories constantly referred to Mao as "the great and glorious leader" of the Chinese revolution, but not a single adjective was put in front of Khrushchev's name.

THANK YOU NIKITA SERGEYEVICH

LONDON (Reuters)—When Nikita Khrushchev arrived Sunday in Vladivostok, en route home from Red China, he was greeted by large signs reading:

"Thank you, Nikita Sergeyevich, for the speeches you made in America," Moscow Radio reported today.

IT CAME FROM OUTER SPACE, TOO

Siberia 'A-Bombed' in 1908?

NEW YORK (AP)—A Russian magazine suggests that a nuclear explosion of extraterrestrial origin may have taken place over Siberia, June 30, 1908.

The magazine, Sovetskaya Rossiya, in an article in its August 28 issue, reported in the New York Times, Sunday, also theorized that:

1. Two small moons of the planet Mars may be artificial satellites placed in orbit by a civilization which once thrived on that planet before it lost most of its atmosphere.

2. A heretofore unperceived force exists in the cosmos which controls time and causes spinning bodies, such as planets Earth, Saturn and Jupiter to be heart-shaped.

The Siberian explosion concept was rechecked last year by several scientists and senior students on expedition from the Soviet Academy of Sciences visiting the scene.

The Times said: "They found that the radioactivity of plants at the centre of the explosion site was from 50 to 100 per cent higher than on the edge of the area."

The story was that at the time local inhabitants saw a huge fireball fall from the sky and "the explosion that followed levelled 700 to 800 square miles of forest."

New nickel-chrome lined oven cooks more evenly, cleans more easily

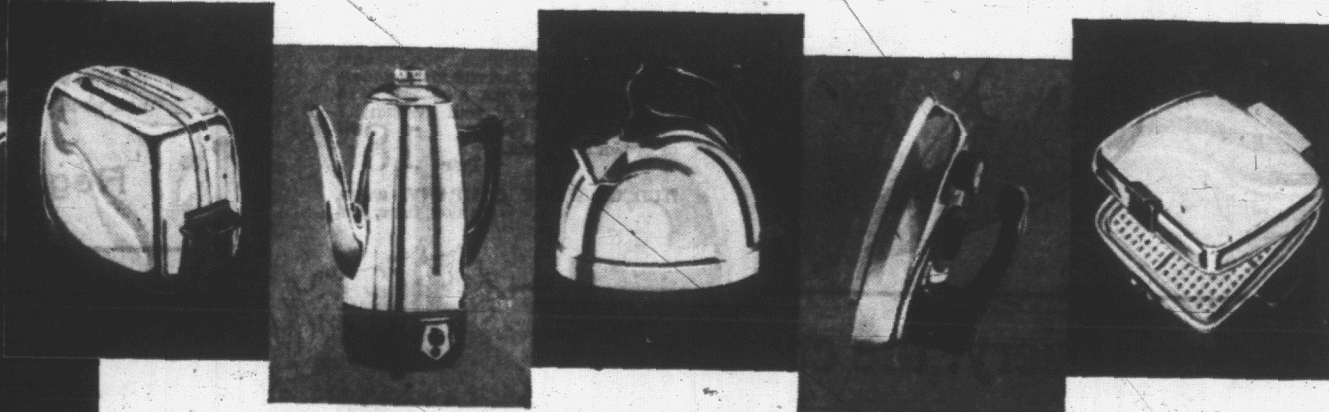

The beautiful new range you see here is a marvel of modern cooking efficiency. And a brilliant new concept in design. It can be mounted on kitchen cabinets or counter tops; or you can hang it on wall brackets at any desired height. With slide-in burner units, a drop-leaf cutting board, a rotisserie, automatic timers and heating controls, it provides wonderful new conveniences for the housewife.

But perhaps the most interesting and time-saving feature of all is the nickel-chrome plated lining inside the two large oven units. This gleaming bright surface reflects heat better for faster preheating, more even baking and roasting. And it's easier to clean! Grease, burned foods and juice sugars just can't get so firm a grip on that mirror-smooth surface.

That's the beauty of all nickel-chrome plated household appliances! And their utility! They add sparkle to your kitchen. They won't crack or chip; stay bright and new looking for years. The good heavy plating of Inco Nickel underneath the chrome helps insure this lasting beauty in depth.

NATO Pool Plan Proposed

BAD GODESBERG, Germany (AP) — Dean Acheson proposed Sunday a shift in Western policy to pull Western Europe and North America together into a unified front on all political, economic and military issues.

The plan won immediate support from American and West German officials winding up a four-day conference on East-West tensions.

The plan is similar in many ways to one put forward by Lester B. Pearson, former Canadian external affairs minister, calling for NATO to extend its powers into fields other than military.

Acheson, who as U.S. state secretary under former President Truman helped found NATO, proposed that the 15 NATO countries and perhaps other Western European nations sign a new treaty creating a "super council" to draw up and supervise joint policy. This council would be made up of senior officials from the treaty nations, each of whom would be as fully qualified as a foreign minister to make policy.

He urged "united and indivisible" military efforts, the pooling of economic resources and the mutual quest of political aims.

SCIENTIST SEALED IN CAPSULE

Flickery Lights, Bells On 10-Day 'Space Solo'

WINNIPEG (CP)—A scientist who lived in a darkened cell for 10 days without contact with other humans told Sunday how he was plagued by flickering lights and heard a typewriter that wasn't there.

Dr. John P. Zubek, 34, emerged Saturday night from the plastic dome where he had lain on an inflated mattress and wore special ear muffs to eliminate all possible noise.

The only food he had was bologna sandwiches, coffee and an occasional piece of pie. "It might have been a hallucination of taste," he said. "Those sandwiches kept tasting better and better as time went on."

The experiment was the first of a series to be conducted at the University of Manitoba for the Defence Research Board. The bachelor professor was believed to have established a record for isolation of this kind.

STUDY MONOTONY
The purpose was to find the effects of monotony and darkness on human intellectual capability. The findings could be useful on long interplanetary flights, submarine voyages or other isolated living conditions.

The dome, which the head of the university psychology department entered Wednesday, Sept. 23, was seven feet high and nine feet in diameter.

In an interview after he came out, he said the real hallucinations of sight and sound began the second day. "They were amorphous—no picture or structure—just hazy clouds. They seemed to move in a counter-clockwise fashion. They'd disappear and then come back."

"Flickering lights plagued me. They increased in brightness during any kind of activity. It became to my advantage not to make any moves."

REALISTIC SOUNDS
"On the sixth day I suddenly heard a phone ringing. I even got up to answer it. Then I heard a typewriter typing. It was so real I even heard the carriage being pushed back.

"I found, though, that if I engaged in any kind of intellectual activity they would go away. I'd start working on a textbook I'm writing on human development. I'd visualize the pages in front of my eyes."

While the work on the text-book drove away the hallucinations, it was difficult to concentrate on it.

Dr. Zubek said his nightmares were those of fear of confinement and of suffocating. It was difficult to tell how much he slept but he spent a lot of time midway between sleep and awareness.

The psychologist said time was impossible to reckon. At one time when he was asked to estimate the time, he thought it was 8 a.m. It really was 4:30 p.m.

CONDEMNED MURDERER WANTS TO DONATE EYE

OXNARD, Calif. (UPI) — A man condemned to die for the murder of Canadian-born nurse Olga Duncan has asked permission to donate an eye to the Rev. David Hansen of nearby Yucca Valley.

Attorney Burt Henson said Luis Moya, 22, said the eye transplant would enable the nearly blind minister to join an expedition planned by a medical missionary group.

Moya is at San Quentin Prison awaiting an appeal to his death sentence. He, Augustine Baldonado, and Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan were convicted of murdering Mrs. Duncan's son's pregnant wife.

Ross Bay Cemetery May Require $250,000 Fund

New regulations for municipal cemeteries may force Victoria to set up a $250,000 reserve fund for perpetual maintenance of Ross Bay Cemetery.

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot today told the city's cemetery committee the Public Utilities Commission proposes a change "that is sensible policy for the province but a punch in the nose for Victoria."

A letter from the P.U.C. which controls cemeteries in B.C., indicated that it intends to press for legislation which would force all municipal cemeteries to raise their maintenance standards to those imposed on commercial burial parks.

"This is serious," said Ald. Proudfoot. "It is going to cost the city thousands and thousands of dollars. We just haven't got the money and we

Churches, DVA Asked to Assist

He argued that various churches and the department of veterans' affairs, which received substantial "donations" of the cemetery property for denominational and soldiers' areas, should be compelled to raise money for their sections.

"I don't see how the churches can be made responsible for those graves," said Ald. M. H. Mooney.

"Why not?" shot back Ald. Proudfoot. "They made a lot of money selling those plots."

Committee was told that the city still owned the entire property and although the churches agreed to share costs of certain work, under an 1879 statute, this was never done.

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren said a legal opinion had been obtained that held the churches were not legally responsible for the "donated" sections.

"Well if they are not legally responsible, they certainly are morally responsible," said Ald. Proudfoot.

West Coast Polio Outbreak Controlled

An outbreak of polio on the west coast of Vancouver Island apparently has been limited to two cases, Indian health service officials reported today.

There is no fear of an epidemic.

Two Indian children, a boy of 10 and a girl of six, died of polio at Esperanza Hospital Friday and Saturday, and it was feared other Indians at the village of Queen's Cove and Friendly Cove had the disease.

Examination has revealed no other cases. A girl of 20, in hospital and believed suffering from polio, had another disease altogether, it was reported.

MONTE ROBERTS

They said it couldn't be done. Hah, I said, who are they who said it couldn't be done? Anybody, I said, can watch a world series baseball game and a National Football League game at one and the same time.

They said it couldn't be done, so yesterday I set out to prove it could be done.

So I took our small-time carryable TV set, and I carried it over to a friend's house.

And at 12:45, we tuned in the world series game on one set.

And at 1:30 p.m., we tuned in the NFL game on the OTHER set.

It was fortunate for us the baseball and the football were on different channels, otherwise it is hard to say what might have happened.

At 1:00 p.m., after a few pre-game ceremonies, the Chicago White Sox and the Los Angeles Dodgers began pitching small white round leather-covered spheres at each other.

At 1:30 p.m., (on another set, remember, and another channel), the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams began pitching rather larger but still white leather-covered although elongated spheres at each other.

This, I said to myself and all those within hearing distance, is a day for the died-in-the-wool sports fan to long remember.

"Look," I cried, "there is the White Sox pitcher Dick Donovan throwing a slider—over the corner, knee high."

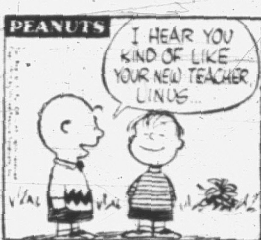

And then, "Look, look," I shouted, "there is the San Francisco pitcher, Don Drysdale, throwing a screen pass to Joe Perry."

"Don't miss this," I screamed. "See how Jim Landis fielded that deep punt from the Rams' 20-yard line."

"Look, look, look," I admonished my friends. "See how Wade fired that double play ball from the pocket after faking a hand-off to the third baseman."

Just seconds later, I was on my feet, rooting for Y. A. Tittle as he hit the left field screen at the Los Angeles Coliseum with a perfect three-cushion canon that went through the house before knocking off the balls and winding up as a ringer forcing a face-off under the basket with a left-right combination for a photo finish with deuces wild and a half-nelson.

They said it couldn't be done.

Third Term Try Made Official By Mayor Scurrah

Mayor Percy Scurrah announced over the weekend he will stand for re-election this December in a bid for Ex-alderman J. Donald Smith, an MLA for Victoria, who announced his candidacy for the mayoralty several weeks ago, immediately issued his campaign platform.

Mayor Scurrah, who had no opposition to his election two years ago, said he will issue his platform later.

The mayor's entry into the election battle was expected for some time. At present, the betting in City Hall corridors is that the contest will be a straight two-man fight.

However, there is a possibility of a "dark horse" candidate making a late entry into the race before nomination day in December.

Mr. Smith's platform said he will campaign for establishment of a downtown parking commission "designed to enable the business firms and merchants to solve their own parking problems."

He said he would fight to defeat the View Street parking bylaw.

Mr. Smith's other campaign plans are: a tax incentive plan for home improvements; establishment of a Recreation Commission to encourage provision of more skating and swimming facilities and a recreational hall for old age pensioners; early establishment of a "full-fledged university for Victoria."

Improved civic services without "ill-considered, adventurous schemes such as the house moving project at the new fire hall site which cost taxpayers $150,000 more than was necessary"; efforts to have a larger portion of education costs borne by the senior governments; and a "hold the line" policy on property taxes.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Household goods valued at more than $750 were stolen from a Victoria home under construction Saturday night.

F. G. Rainsford, 1781 Veda Place, told police someone went to his nearly finished house at 1730 Gonzales, got in by way of an unlocked door or by using a pass key, and stole two carpets worth $600, a four-poster double bed with spring-filled mattress and vanity mirror valued at $150, and six medicine chest mirrors.

Remaining furnishings were removed by Mr. Rainsford for safekeeping.

Lieut. David Avery, navigating officer on the minesweeper HMCS Fortitude based at Esquimalt, is one of two new aides-de-camp appointed to Governor-General Vanier.

The other aide is Flight Lieut. Paul E. Hinch of Montreal, former air cadet liaison officer at RCAF Station Torbay, Newfoundland.

Parksville motorist Harvey Bruce Dobbyn, 30, was admitted to Jubilee Hospital Sunday night after the car he was driving ripped out a checkerboard sign on Patricia Bay Highway at Sidney about 7 p.m.

The hospital said Dobbyn was treated for suspected rib fractures.

Sidney RCMP said Dobbyn drove east on Mills Road and failed to make a turn at the highway. The car skidded, bounced over a ditch and collided with the sign and a fence.

Newa Singh, 2912 Prior, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a cut jaw received in a traffic accident early Sunday.

A car that ran out of gas on Cormorant Street ran into trouble on Store Street minutes later Saturday night.

Police said the driver was being assisted by two friends who pushed the car west on Cormorant, smack into the E and N Railway Station.

The two friends were charged with being intoxicated in a public place.

TRAFFIC FINES
In city police court today: Robert Henson, 386 Obed, $15 for speeding over 30.

Harold J. Kilfoyle, 220 Wilson, $10 for failing to dim headlights.

Hugh Beri Lodge, 2127 Chambers, $15 for driving without a muffler.

Gurdev Singh, 1275 Mitchell, $35 and licence suspension for speeding over 30.

Florence Phillips, Sidney, $35 for careless driving.

Two young Victoria children were released from Royal Jubilee Hospital Saturday after being treated for an overdose of baby aspirin.

Laurey Cardiff, 2, had his stomach pumped and brother Leonard, 14 months, was examined after being taken to hospital by police at the request of their mother, Mrs. L. R. Cardiff.

Federal Superannuates will meet in the YMCA rooms on Friday.

Damage was negligible when an electric drill started a fire in a garage at the home of David R. McAdams, 2150 Kings, at 8 p.m. Sunday.

A group of youths had been working there converting an old car into a hotrod.

WINDSHIELD WIPING AIDS DRIVE

Drivers Cross at Chest

Two angry motorists complained to the Community Chest executive today about the windshield washing drive put on by 60 girls belonging to the Victoria YWCA Y-Teen Club Saturday.

But they were only two among hundreds of Victoria car-owners who had their windshields washed without the asking and liked it.

After cleaning the windshield the girls left a "summons" in the wiper urging the owner to give his full share to the Community Chest.

"I think it is an informal check for a bunch of amateur window washers to crawl all over my car," complained one of the two dissenters.

"I had my windshield washed twice within the hour, the wiper hasn't worked since and the girls left big fingerprints all over the bodywork.

"They should at least have asked my permission first."

The other dissenter said the window washing was "amateurish" and the blue summons sticking in the wiper gave him "a severe shock."

"This is impertinent interference with private property," he complained in a letter to Eric Mallett, campaign chairman.

"We are sorry for any offence caused," Mr. Mallett said, "but I am happy to say the majority of motorists regarded it as a cute gimmick."

The Y-Teen girls distributed 3,500 blue "summonses" throughout the day.

RED FEATHER DRIVE LAGS

Total receipts in the Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign reached $58,700 at noon today.

"We are getting an excellent response from employees of local firms," campaign chairman Eric Mallett said. "But our total receipts are behind those of last year."

Lois Logan, Derek Gay Wed In Double-Ring Ceremony

First Baptist Church was the scene of a double ring wedding ceremony Saturday evening which united Lois Marilyn Logan and Derek Glenn Gay. Multi-toned dahlias and chrysanthemums decorated the church for the ceremony which was conducted by Rev. G. R. Easter. Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Logan of Oak Bay, and groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gay of Royal Oak.

Wedding, "I do's" and "Take Thon This Rose" were sung by soloist Beth Reid. Organist was J. Bergin.

Miss Logan was given in marriage by her father. For the wedding, she wore a classic gown of imported white lace in rose motif design. Bodice had a scalloped scoop neckline and skirt was in ballerina length. A hair of French illusion veiling was held by a coronet of pearls. Her bouquet was of red roses interlaced with white stephanotis.

Miss Joan Baker, maid of honor, and the Misses Lynn Gay and Heather Logan, bridesmaids, wore nylon gowns in aqua, ice blue and Hartnell pink tones, respectively. All had feather bandeaux and carried bouquets of carnations.

Best man was Jack Mather and ushers were Sergei Gibson and Barry Harvey.

A four-tier wedding cake flanked by vases of roses centered the bridal table at reception in Golden Slipper Supper Club. Archibald Logan, uncle of bride, proposed the toast. A fitted suit of brown wool

Vancouver Church Scene Of Marriage

A double ring ceremony in Shaughnessy Heights United Church, united in marriage Thelma Angus, daughter of Mrs. E. Nelson of Vancouver, and Brian Robert Woodbridge, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woodbridge of Victoria. The Rev. T. M. Badger officiated.

The bride wore a ballerina gown of white Italian satin. A crown of mother of pearl sequins held her shoulder-length illusion veil. Her bouquet was a shower of white and pale blue carnations.

Bridal attendant, Mrs. Marjorie Philip, was gowned in copper-toned satin and wore a feathered beige and brown hat. She carried yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

The groom's brother, Murray G. Woodbridge, was best man. The family reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Woodbridge of Vancouver.

The bride donned a suit of black and turquoise boucle and chose black accessories for the honeymoon motoring trip to Phoenix, Ariz. Her corsage was yellow roses.

Pictured in her demure lace christening robe is tiny Lynda Dianna, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Julusson, held here by her mother. She was principal at a christening ceremony in HMCS Naden Chapel on Sunday afternoon. Officiating was Padre I. R. Fuller. The godparents of the little girl are Miss Margie Labinsky and Mr. David Holmes.

Dirk Used to Cut Cake Following Wedding Vows

Scottish tradition was observed at a reception following the marriage of Helen Patricia Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Brown of Victoria, to Angus Alexander MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. MacDonald of Vancouver, when a dirk was used to cut the wedding cake.

Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church which was decorated with bronze, gold, white and yellow chrysanthemums. Music was played by Bernie Porter.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore white, lace-over-satin, slightly en train. The bateau-neckline was bordered with pearls and the sleeves of the gown were lily pointed. Shoulder-length veil was caught by a crescent-shaped headpiece of lace and pearls.

Pearl necklace and earrings were a gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of talisman roses and white feather carnations.

Champagne and white shot taffeta and a bouquet of chrysanthemums on tone was the choice of Mrs. Glen Beauchamp, matron of honor, who came from Vancouver for the ceremony.

Mrs. William Gordon, also of Vancouver, Mrs. Ronald Henning, and Miss Vicki Fowler were bridesmaids. Their dresses, styled like Mrs. Beauchamp's, were short, full-skirted, with wide sashes crossing in front and cascading to hemline at back. The ice orange taffeta of the dresses was used for the flat bows that formed the headpieces. They carried crescent-shaped bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Little Kathie MacMillan, niece of the bride, made a charming flower girl in her dress of white damask nylon with its demure Peter Pan collar. Her flowers, bronze chrysanthemums, were carried in a small basket.

Mrs. K. W. Brown chose pink accessories and a gown of royal blue velvet. Her corsage was of pink roses. The groom's mother was gowned in a green sheath complemented by beige accessories. Her corsage contained roses and chrysanthemums in shades of yellow.

John MacMillan was best man and Don Gillam, Hugh Creighton and Hugh Brown, brother of the bride, were ushers. Jack Speck proposed the toast at a reception in Sir William Wallace Room at Holyrood House.

Vases of pink roses and white candles flanked the three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated with pink icing roses.

The bride wore a brown dressmaker suit, beige hat and gloves, brown shoes and bag for the honeymoon motoring trip to California. Her corsage was a green orchid. The couple will live at 949 Southgate Street.

Keep Children Occupied For Hours With New Putty

By PENNY SAVER

With damp and cold October weather bringing children indoors more and more these days, big problem for hard-working mother is keeping children happily and quietly occupied.

Ever seen this new crazy putty that is becoming all the rage with the younger set? It's guaranteed to keep children fascinated for hours. It bounces like a rubber ball, it stretches like elastic, it breaks. It will pick up colored comics and printing in reverse. Price is 59 cents an "eggful."

Another irresistible item for the preschooler is an unbreakable, full-size kiddie car made of plastic composition that will bend before it breaks. No sharp edges, no rusting. And the price? $3.98.

Cosmetic news this week is for the woman plagued with an oily skin. First, of course, get caught up on beauty sleep, cut out rich snacks and start ordering salads and fruits.

A milky-type cleanser is the one for you. To clear up oily skin, massage this deep-cleansing type into your skin every morning and night. Keep up that massage, too, until cleanser is lather-thick, then tissue off. Repeat, until the tissues come away spotless.

Then pat on a lemony smelling smoothing liquid. This one has a magic way with large pores and blemishes. Leave off the night cream. Instead use a film of medicated soothing cream that heals and dries up ugly spots.

Milky deep cleanser is $2; lemon lotion $3.50, and medicated cream $2.25.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Author Admonishes You To Love Life, Feel Deeply

This column will give you no special beauty information. It will not tell you how to do your make-up or pluck your eyebrows or stand straight.

It will not tell you how to avoid worry, or keep your husband happy, or deal with your teenage children, or how to reduce or gain weight, or how to live to be a hundred.

Nope! Today I want to give you some of my personal reflections. I do this once in a while and the response from readers is overwhelming.

I am hopelessly in love with life and I hope you are. Once in a while the pressure becomes too great for folks, and then the discouragements and frustrations creep up on one's natural enthusiasm for living.

like tropical mildew on leather shoes.

At such times we can't see any further away or higher up than an earth worm. We all can have our times of strain, our frustrations and personal crises, but may the time never come when, unfolding blossoms, the vivid colors of fall, moonlight on the water, a sunset, the first zippy feel of frost or the aroma of rain on newly-cut grass, fail to give us a lift!

And may the time never come when I miss through unawareness the humor and pathos and stimulation of daily life as it is delivered to us each 24 hours! May you and I never take life or people for granted! May we always have the ability to feel deeply whether this means happiness or unhappiness. Otherwise we are half dead even though we breathe and move and eat and sleep and talk.

THE BETTER HALF

"My feet saved you money today—They gave out half way through my shopping list"

DEAR ABBY...

It's Easy, Man!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am sick and tired of reading articles like: "Ten Ways to Keep Your Husband Happy" or "How to Hold Your Man."

How about us women? Let's open a magazine or newspaper once and find an article on "Ten Ways to Keep Your Wife Happy" or "How to Hold Your Wife."

I wish you'd say something about this in your column, Abby. We women could use a lift. Thanks a bunch. IDA.

DEAR IDA: A man would be astounded to know how little effort it takes to make his wife happy. I have a formula below:

- (1) Tell her you love her at least once a day.
- (2) Compliment her when she deserves it.
- (3) Remember her occasionally with a little gift. It need not be expensive.
- (4) Rub her back.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has a closet full of clothes she will never be able to get into again. But she refuses to give them to her poor relatives, and believe me, there are plenty on both sides who could use them. She keeps saying she is going on a diet "next Monday," but "next Monday" never comes. Don't you think she should give up, and give those clothes away? "WILL!"

DEAR "WILL": Perhaps your wife is using these clothes as an "incentive" to go on a diet one of these Mondays. Instead of pestering her to give the clothes away—pester her to get streamlined.

DEAR ABBY: I would like some advice on how to get a certain girl. Her name is Linda and she is about the best-looking girl in the whole school. She is 14 and so am I. She never went steady because her mother wouldn't let her. She turned down a chance to kiss Bruce, Randy, Roger, Bob G. and Bob L. at Marilyn's birthday party. It was only part of a game but she sat it out. They nicknamed her "Alaska" because she is so cold. But she doesn't look cold to me.

How is a guy supposed to know if a girl is cold, playing hard-to-get, or just nice?

DON

DEAR DON: A girl who refuses to kiss every Bruce, Randy, Roger and Bob who comes along is not "playing" hard-to-get—she IS hard to get. Linda sounds like a very nice girl. Play it cool and you could wind up with "Alaska."

Everyone is talking about the fine collection of pictures they saw displayed on the walls at

Watson-Martin

Vows Said in St. John's Church

Autumn flowers decorated St. John's Anglican Church for the marriage of Linda Marie Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Martin, to Kenneth Craig Watson, son of Mrs. Viola Watson and Mr. Kenneth C. Watson, both of Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gown in a floor-length dress of shimmering satin. Fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, sabrina neck-tied, billowed into a full hooped skirt and sweeping chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion mist was held by a coronet of seed pearls, interspersed with sparkling crystals. She carried a cascade of red roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Eleanor Kohley, chose floral nylon with yellow flowers and carried carnations en tone. The bridesmaids, Misses Virginia Mackay and Barbara Mackenzie wore white flowered nylon. Miss Mackay's flowers being pink and Miss Mackenzie's blue. White leather clutch hats completed their ensembles and they carried carnation bouquets to match.

The junior bridesmaid, Miss Linda Watson, wore a gown of blue eyelet nylon, while the flower girl, Linda Watson, was dressed in yellow eyelet nylon. Both carried baskets of yellow, pink and blue carnations.

Mrs. David Martin, the bride's mother, wore a sheath dress and matching jacket of blue brocade, topped with a blue feather hat.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE TONIGHT

Great Symphony Opener

By AUDREY JOHNSON
What a joy to return to the concert hall for the first time this season and be greeted by such exciting, vital stirring stuff as Hans Gruber, the Victoria Symphony and guest violinist Hyman Goodman, present.

Sunday afternoon's concert, which is to be repeated tonight at the Royal Theatre, was the sort of experience that leaves one with a lively appetite for more.

Suppose the "Military" is not your favorite of "Papa" Haydn's 100-odd symphonies; suppose your taste runs to the more substantial of the violin concerto repertoire in preference to the dazzling Glazounoff; even so such performances as these by the orchestra and Mr. Goodman under Gruber's baton could not fail to give not only pleasure, but a considerable thrill.

AUTHORITY OBVIOUS
Sitting at the first desk (in place of Clifford Evens on leave of absence in England) the fine quality of Goodman's leadership, his authority and finesse were obvious throughout the Haydn Symphony.

But when he stepped into the solo artist's spot Canada's most eminent concert master quickly revealed himself as a concert violinist of impressive stature.

The most fantastic technical feats posed by the Glazounoff Concerto were dealt with by the artist with a bravura that was magnificently disciplined and an ease that was almost nonchalant.

He can produce an opulent, full-throated tone, or with his fluent and commanding bow send showers of delicate notes flying, while in the smooth and sculptured phrases of a more reflective passage he stands revealed as an artist in the deepest sense of the word.

In the playing of Brahms First Symphony, conductor and orchestra achieved a performance that was, at moments, inspired, and at all times satisfying.

STRINGS GLORIOUS
Technically and interpretively it did full justice to one of the greatest works in symphonic literature. There was firmness and strength in all sections of the orchestra and upon this technical security, Gruber established the splendid architecture of the composition with its nobility and its aspects of tenderness and passion.

Among the more breath-taking moments were some glorious string playing in the second movement and a climactic finale that brought one to the edge of one's seat.

A rhythmically alive and zestful performance of the Haydn "Military" Symphony as the opening number, set a brilliant note for a program that concluded in a mood of excitement and exultation.

Tonight's concert will mark the official opening of the symphony season.

Capacity Audience Convulsed As Theatre Guild Year Starts

"LOVE IN ALBANIA" by Eric Linklater.

Flora Lawson, Veronica Thomas, Sheila Litt, Don Ross, David Shearer, Ken Bostock, Will Hamiltons.

Victoria Theatre Guild's 1959-60 season was launched on a wave of laughter Saturday night with the production of this British comedy.

Director Vera Trueman and the competent cast of "Love in Albania" achieved a pretty smooth opening night performance and must have felt well compensated by the response of the capacity audience at Langham Court Theatre.

The play is well stocked with humor, of a non-subtle type easy to assimilate and enjoy. It provides an evening of relaxation even if it gets nowhere in particular.

As a piece of dramatic construction it is, in fact, remarkably weak. There is no noticeable climax, practically no contrast of mood or incident and even the humor cannot altogether disguise the fact that it is made static by "talkiness."

Unlicensed For 3 Months, Driver Fined

Police caught up to a suspended driver when his car crashed a wooden barrier at the west end of Johnson Street Bridge at 12:25 a.m. Saturday.

Magistrate William Ostler fined Henry Poirier, 53 Hallowell, $125 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his licence was under suspension—which he said he had been doing for the last three months.

"You have been driving your car for three months without a driver's licence and while suspended; is that correct?" the magistrate asked.

"An isolated case is severe enough defiance of the law, but three months is a serious offence."

LONG UNCAUGHT

"Is this your first offence for driving under suspension?" Magistrate Ostler inquired.

"Yes," said Poirier.

"Then it is more by good luck than good judgment if you've been driving for three months."

Police said Poirier's car was going east on Johnson when it struck the barrier, lowered before the bridge was raised.

They said the accused was prohibited from driving two years ago for failing to show proof of financial responsibility.

Both Sheila Litt and Veronica Thomas gave clear, consistent and well-defined performances; the former investing a stock character with charm and vibrancy, the latter fully illuminating one of the best drawn portraits in the play.

Don Ross was, as always, forceful, punching his comedy home with deadpan earnestness. Ken Bostock's performance was remarkable for the contrast he managed to achieve for his poised technique and for the pliancy of his limbs in the final exit scene.

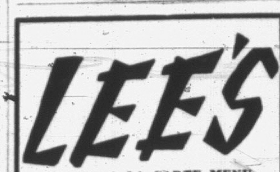

Fifth member of the well-balanced cast, David Shearer, had rather a thankless role but brought off its small climax effectively.

When should you buy Life Insurance?

The best time is when you are young because then annual premiums are low. But many young married men face a dilemma. They decide to postpone the purchase of life insurance till their family situation creates a greater need. However, they find later that premiums are higher and in the meantime, they run the risk of being uninsurable. Here's a sound formula for meeting the problem. It's Manufacturers Life's "Security Graph plus G.I.B." — Security Graph helps avoid costly postponements by setting up a plan for buying insurance according to future needs and ability to pay. G.I.B. is a new policy rider that enables the buyer of a new policy to purchase more insurance at regular rates at specific dates in the future — regardless of changes of health or occupation.

Talk to the Man from Manufacturers Life about this new security formula today.

Business Women's Week

Women Make Bigger Contribution To Community Life In Present Day

At one time, not long ago, a woman was likely to read her name in the newspaper only if she were convener of a church bazaar, or described an interesting new bloom to her garden club.

Today's woman still pursues these interests, but in addition she is playing an increasing role in the life of the community as a whole. A single edition of a Canadian news paper may tell of a woman presiding at a meeting of a city council; performing a delicate operation; receiving congratulations from a judge for a presentation of a law suit, and leading a class of students on a tour of industrial plants.

This week, attention will focus on the increasing contribution women are making to Canada's development. In cities and towns in every province, women of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs are celebrating their annual "Business Women's Week" this Monday to Saturday by reflecting on the improvements made already in the status of women, and by rededicating themselves to play a more effective part in their community's life.

IN PUBLIC LIFE

Reference to the federation's annual "Authoritative List of Women in Public Life in Canada" show just how much leadership is already given by the women of Canada. In a message on the eve of Business Women's Week, Miss Isabel Menzies, Montreal, Federation president, points out that the clubs in Canadian Federation over the years have interested themselves in such projects as the appointment of women from every province to the Senate of Canada; the appointment of qualified women to policy-making administrative and judicial commissions and boards of government; the appointment of women on juries; the repeal of policies and laws that discriminate against women and to support of the United Nations and its efforts to improve the status of women.

In July of this year in Paris, France, the International Federation of Business and Professional Women met in congress. Canadian Federation was represented by 130 members from Canada. The theme of the Congress was "Building Bridges Between Peoples."

Subjects concerning the support of World Refugee Year; Article 8 of the UN charter which stresses that men and women share equally in the work of the United Nations and that the UN and specialized agencies include women wherever possible as a regular part of their Technical Assistance Program were discussed.

Also at congress women were urged to accept greater responsibilities in policy-making bodies, which affect conditions and remuneration in employment; to work for extension of facilities for women to enter the fields of architectural engineering and law, and to strive for greater equality in the age of retirement and pensions.

Clubs Join for Sunday Supper, Church Service

More than 100 members of eight city clubs opened Business Women's Week on Sunday with a buffet supper at King Arthur's Round Table.

Miss Ruth Adams, chairman, welcomed members and friends of the eight clubs participating in the week, which is set aside to salute business and professional women the world over and is celebrated in Canada and the U.S.A. In Victoria the week was proclaimed by Mayor Percy Scourrah.

During the supper the presidents of the various clubs, spoke on the aims and objects of their groups, and gave interpretations of their emblems. Speaking for the Business and Professional Women's Club the sponsors of the week, was Miss Ella Brett. Marriage Talk LONDON (CP) — Marriage is the main cause of a shortage of speech therapists, says the health ministry. An official said "it seems that speech therapists are so attractive that they talk themselves into marriage at a very early stage in their careers."

School Train

THE P.A.S. Man, (CP) — The "school bus" for 140 Indian children in Northern Manitoba was a CNR train. Fifty children got on at Churchill, and 90 more at intermediate points on the Hudson Bay Railway, heading for the residential school at Dauphin, Man.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 12" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. The "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, bark, etc.

APPEARANCE?

For homes and buildings where a distinctive, "rustic" appearance is desired. "FOREST" siding is a heavy, shagreened, weather-resistant material. It is made from 12-inch wide logs, with a 4-inch wide flange which adds to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and shagreened weather-resistant surface, has the STRENGTH and STABILITY of the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap when together with its thickness and shagreened surface, it makes excellent material for the INSULATION stand-point.

"FOREST" siding represents an "ECONOMY" in home-building. It costs less than most other types of siding. The lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?

As easily and quickly as common shingles. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one nail cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?

If a natural finish is desired, use equal parts of linseed oil and any workable hand oil waterproofing. The oil not only protects the surface but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired, "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the knots where it will be shown in stop formation of a vapor barrier.

People and Things

MILAN, Italy — Women screamed and fainted when a five-ton female elephant broke into a church during mass here Sunday.

Mary, a 58-year-old circus elephant, was being led through the streets to an annual blessing ceremony marking the feast of St. Francis, patron saint of animals when the noise of car brakes frightened her.

She snatched her back, bolted into the courtyard of a nearby church, then crashed her head and shoulders through the central door behind the congregation kneeling in prayer.

As panic gripped the 200 worshippers — including a group from a neighboring old ladies' home — the animal's trainer jabbed a spike into Mary's hind foot which made her back out.

A veterinary surgeon diagnosed an "acute state of nerves."

POR THURON, Mich. — A poison pumpkin plot has a Port Huron farmer puzzled.

Police reported he tried to discourage looters by putting up a sign reading: "Beware—there is one poison pumpkin in this patch."

The farmer did not poison any of the pumpkins but now he is worried that maybe someone else did. When he went to the patch Saturday a footnote scrawled on the warning sign read: "Now there are two."

CUBA, N.Y. — I've heard of men seeking snakes after drinking moonshine but this is the first time I've ever seen snakes in the moonshine.

Oliver J. Gettel, supervisor of the local federal alcohol and tobacco tax unit, was describing the products of an illegal still operated by Lee Chak Sun, 30.

Agents found a five-gallon jar at Sun's home Sunday. It contained a potent-smelling liquid, and coiled at the bottom were the remains of two snakes.

Sun insisted that he was making "dragon juice" to be used in the treatment of low blood pressure and rheumatism.

ANGKOR, Cambodia — Princess Alexandra was driven over a rough jungle road Sunday to visit the Temple of Love on the outskirts of the great ruined city of Angkor.

Her convoy, almost a complete fighting unit in itself, bumped 23 miles into the jungle over a road first checked by army mine sweepers.

MONTE CARLO — Princess Grace of Monaco and her two children, Prince Albert and Princess Caroline, left Sunday night by train for Paris, where she and her husband, Prince Rainier, will be officially received on a state visit Oct. 12, 13 and 14.

POLITICS HALTS CANADA

Speaker Wants UN To Admit Red China

Author-broadcaster Arthur Phelps told the Women's Canadian Club here Friday that "if we did not play politics in the UN council chamber, Red China would have been recognized long ago."

No country should be kept out for "moral turpitude," the reason advanced for not allowing entry of Red China, he claimed.

If this sentence was actually carried out "Russia should not be there or, for that matter, the United States."

Mr. Phelps referred to the time, a few years ago, when Lester Pearson spoke against discrimination concerning Red China but voted to keep her out of the UN because that was what the U.S. wanted.

"I believe the day is coming when a Canadian will stand up in the UN and vote for recognition of Red China," despite the U.S. stand.

"Many thinking persons in the U.S. would like to see that day," he said.

Mr. Phelps said the UN's best work is not done in the council chamber, where "politics is played" but in the smaller groups that go about their work without fanfare.

Earlier, he told the Men's Canadian Club that people content with the old groove, social or moral, were a threat to society.

"Think of the perpetuated unchecked hocus pocus that permeates our religious practices... there's obsolescence all through our religious and political talk... it seems almost that we are trying to build society on a foundation of jelly."

Mr. Phelps was for two years supervisor of the CBC's international service and is now a CBC broadcaster and special lecturer at the University of Toronto.

No Blame In Drowning Of Newsman

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury said Friday night it found no evidence of negligence in the drowning of Toronto public relations counsel Alexander Janusitis Sept. 12 at nearby Rice Lake.

Mr. Janusitis was a former newspaperman having been bureau chief for United Press International at Vancouver and later editor of the now-defunct Edmonton Bulletin.

"We believe that no blame can be attached to anyone concerned," the jury statement said. "And there is no evidence to suggest negligence."

Mr. Janusitis, 43, had been riding in a 19-foot boat powered by a 75-horsepower outboard motor in the company of Peter Greenhill, boat builder and president of Brampton Boat Works, and King Whyte, television and radio broadcaster. On a sharp turn Mr. Janusitis, sitting in the stern, was thrown overboard.

The boat demonstration was part of a press party preview of 1960 model boats and sponsored by Outboard Marine Corporation of Canada Ltd.

PRINCESS GRACE

and began inspecting 300 cadets drawn up on parade. Plop, plop, plop. Three cadets fainted. Whitworth carried on, but the plop, plops became more and more frequent. Before he had finished, nearly 60 cadets had passed out and been carried away by medical orderlies.

"I have a few words to say to you," said Whitworth after inspection was finished, "to all of you who are left, anyway."

NAPLES — Every dog has his day, and for the dogs in Naples dog pound, Sunday was the day.

Because it was the Feast of St. Francis, patron saint of animals, all the dogs in the pound were freed thereby escaping death in the gas chamber.

Then they all trotted around to a Naples dog home where members of Italy's National League for Canine Defence had arranged a celebration banquet of meat, bones and dog biscuits.

'Home-Made' Fun Urged For Tourists

PENTICTON (CP) — A call for distinctively Canadian tourist attractions has been sounded by John Fisher, head of the Canadian Tourist Bureau.

"Until Canada finds something different to offer the American visitor, we'll continue to find ourselves on the wrong side of the ledger," Mr. Fisher told a dinner gathering of the B.C. Tourist Bureau.

"Because we're so much like the United States we must continue to seek the different things, the essence of northern hospitality."

"We've got to spend more time, more money and imagination in making sure the tourist has fun, instead of meeting a barrage of 'no parking' signs and grim faces."

Mr. Fisher urged looking toward California for a future tourist market.

In 1970, he said, California is predicted to surpass the state of New York in population and income per capita, drawing the U.S. economic centre of gravity farther west. "What are we doing to keep up with the revolution?"

Mystery Car Worries Motorist

For nearly a mile a large car without headlights ominously followed motorist Willie Smith, Brentwood, as he drove along Johnson, over the bridge and into Victoria West Saturday night.

Glancing in his rear view mirror, Smith kept a watchful eye on the following car, but it did not budge in its close pursuit; when Smith went faster, the other car went faster, the other car sped up and when Smith slowed down, so did the other car.

Finally Smith turned into a service station at Tyee Road to let the other car pass, so did the follower.

And then Smith found out why. The other car, all on its own without a driver, was hung by its bumper to Smith's rear bumper.

He called police and it dawned on him that the maverick car must have hooked on when he backed out of a parking spot near Government.

Police informed Keith C. Woods, 214 Howe, to come and get his adventuring auto.

Mr. K.'s Boast East-West Atomic On U.S. Code Laughed Off Group Pledges Peace

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Premier Khrushchev bragged while in Los Angeles that his country has obtained top-secret American intelligence codes, a Russian-speaking film executive said Saturday.

Victor M. Carter, the city's official guide for the premier, said Khrushchev told him the Soviet Union has intercepted secret messages from President Eisenhower.

Carter is president of Republic Studios. Of the American Central Intelligence Agency Khrushchev was quoted by Carter as saying: "You're wasting your money. You might as well send it direct to us instead of the middleman because we get most of it anyway."

In Washington, a Central Intelligence Agency spokesman said the matter had been brought to the attention of Allen W. Dulles, director of the agency, who "laughingly reserved comment."

"Mr. Khrushchev is quite a propagandist, isn't he?"

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Little Joe booster rocket designed to pioneer the U.S. manned space vehicle program was fired at Wallops Island, Va., Sunday and the test was described as successful.

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The East-West International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) — a 72-member body created by President Eisenhower's 1953 atoms-peace plan — closed its third annual conference Friday with a pledge "to open a new era in international co-operation for peace and prosperity."

In two weeks of scientific consultations mingled with East-West clashes, the agency decided to step up its efforts in financial, scientific and technical aid for nuclear power production in less developed countries.

East-West clashes centered around a U.S.-backed proposal to give the agency control over nuclear fuel supplies for power projects in countries outside the "atomic club" to prevent diversion to military use. Communist delegates attacked the plan as interference in internal matters of recipient countries.

Another controversy resulted from Soviet-backed attempts of African-Arab members to use the agency's influence against French plans for an A-bomb test in the Sahara.

RCN War Veteran Sea Writer Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Commander William James G. Carr, 64, a naval officer in both world wars and one of Canada's best-known writers of sea stories, died at Sunnybrook Hospital here Friday.

From his experiences in submarines during the First World War he wrote his first book, "By Guess and By God."

His other books were "Hell's Angels of the Deep," "A Century of Sea Stories," "High and Dry," "Good Hunting," "Brass Hats and Bell Bottomed Trousers," "Out of the Mist" and "Checkmate in the North."

Guard Foils Bid to Plant Guns or Drugs

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A guard is believed to have prevented former convicts from planting guns or narcotics on the B.C. penitentiary grounds here when he fired warning shots in an attempt to stop two men trespassing on the grounds.

Two former convicts were picked up later by New Westminster police for questioning. A penitentiary guard spotted two men on the grounds outside the wall at 3 a.m. He ordered them to stop, then fired warning shots as they ran away.

Warden Fred Cummings said he believed the men were attempting to plant something, possibly a gun or narcotics, which would, by pre-arrangement, be picked up by prison inmates on work crews later today.

Loan Plan Set For Drainage

British Columbia farmers in future may apply for government long-term loans for land drainage purposes on the same basis as loans for land clearing. Agricultural Minister Newton P. Steacy announced today.

The loan service permits borrowing of up to $5,000 with payments spread over 15 years, at 4 per cent interest or 20 years in the case of farmers developing new areas. The loans were approved for land clearing by the last session of the legislature.

Dick Duncan Re-Elected Centre Chief

CHEMUNUS — The Community Centre Association will operate again during the 1959-60 season and offer a full recreational program. It was decided after a board of directors was elected this week on the second try.

MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., which owns the community centre hall and pays the taxes on the building, threatened to close it when only a handful of people showed up for the association's annual meeting. A hastily called second meeting saw a better turnout and a full slate of officers elected. Heading the centre for the third straight year is Dick Duncan, vice-president is Ham Ballie, and secretary-treasurer Mike Lines.

"It looked for a while like we might have to close our doors," Mr. Duncan said, "but we're all right now and set for a big year."

A full program of fall and winter sports is now being organized to include juvenile and senior soccer, basketball, boxing, indoor shooting, badminton and table tennis.

"We may also have some Canadian football here this year, too," Mr. Duncan said.

A new ruling passed by the board places a 9 p.m. curfew on all youngsters under 14.

Crofton Man Appeals Against Deportation

Charles Green, former Crofton resident who was to be deported because of illegal entry into Canada four years ago, has asked Citizenship Minister Ellen Fairclough to reconsider the deportation order.

He reported to immigration authorities 13 months ago while living in Crofton. Five months ago he was told by the minister if he had a job within three months he would stand a good chance of staying in Canada.

It took him four months to find his present job in Revelstoke, he said, and he has been employed there for a month.

Robert Henry Clough, 24, of 771 Cordova Bay, with multiple fractures, and John Thompson, 18, of 5319 Parker, with two broken legs and a sorted cuts and bruises, are both in good condition today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Police said they were drivers of a northbound station wagon and southbound car, respectively, which were in head-on collision just south of Dieppe at 7.15. The station wagon landed in a ditch.

Clough's station wagon had first been in a sideswipe collision with a car driven by Ralph Marshall Sparks, 47, of 9055 Patricia Bay Highway. Sparks and his passenger, 15-year-old Arlene Conconi, 2460 Tanner, were slightly hurt.

Police and a new Saanich fire department rescue vehicle, which carries power equipment for cutting through and releasing wreckage and doubles as an ambulance, worked over Clough's station wagon at the bottom of a six-foot ditch.

Cars congested the highway and spectators crowded around the scene before order was restored and traffic re-routed.

Thompson's car was the only one left on the highway after the crash, and both it and the station wagon had front ends pushed back.

A steel-cutting power saw was used to cut the steering wheel away from Clough and a hydraulic jack forced the dashboard away from the front seat.

It was the first test of the rescue gear and the unit was not officially in service since only one crew, including Deputy Chief Glen Robbins who attended the crash, was trained in use of the special equipment.

A doctor gave Clough a sedative before firemen used the jack to free him from the wreckage.

BIG MOUSTACHE

Portrait In Times Rings Bell

(From Duncan Bureau) A picture of London portrait artist John Roy and his famous 24-inch moustache on the front page of Wednesday's Times brought back some pleasant memories for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bailey, Duncan, a former Lancashire couple.

Before coming to Duncan four years ago Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were good friends of the colorful and somewhat eccentric artist, but had not corresponded with him or heard of him until seeing his picture this week.

"We met on a holiday in Wales some years ago and became good friends," said Mrs. Bailey. "He was a marvelous artist, always sketching, and just about the time we left for Canada he was branching out into oils."

The combination of his huge moustache and white hair made him a "most striking figure," Mrs. Bailey recalls. "He started growing the moustache during the war and it has become so much a part of him that he wouldn't lose it for the world."

In addition to being 24 inches from tip to tip, it is gray and ginger in color, she added.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey own several charcoal originals of themselves and their children, done by the artist.

Catholic School Damaged by Blaze

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — The centre wing and back of a Roman Catholic school here were destroyed in an early morning fire Sunday.

Volunteer firemen had the blaze at Smith's Memorial School under control within an hour.

WRECKAGE of station wagon which sent Robert Henry Clough, 774 Cordova Bay Road, to St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday night is towed away by wrecking crews. Saanich fire department crew used hydraulic jack and cutting torches to free the badly injured man whose vehicle was in a three-car collision at Douglas St. and Dieppe Road at 7.15 p.m.

Salt Spring Island representative for a firm of Victoria funeral directors, he was taking the coach from Fulford to Ganges when he noticed smoke in the cab as he approached Ganges hill.

He hoped to reach fire equipment at a Ganges service station, and drove with his head out a side window to see through clouds of dense smoke.

However, when flames began shooting through the floorboards he stopped at the B.C. Forest Service headquarters, where the fire was put out.

The fire, blamed on faulty wiring, damaged the dashboard and scorched paint around the windshield.

Fisherman Killed As Boat Explodes

CAMPBELL RIVER — Robert Lewis, 23, of Cape Mudge Indian village, was killed at 4.35 a.m. Sunday when his 26-foot gillnetter exploded and burned at its mooring in the boat basin here.

Alarm was turned in by RCMP, whose office is only 500 feet from the berth where the explosion occurred.

The explosion awoke others in the mooring, and the fisherman in the boat next to the burning craft cut it free to protect the estimated 400 boats in the sheltered basin.

By the time the fire was out the boat was awash. The body was recovered at 8 a.m., when it was raised.

Force of the blast had distorted the vessel's bow, and sprung several planks. Police blamed an accumulation of gasoline in the boat's bilge for the explosion. It could have been set off as Lewis lit a cigaret, started a fire, or started his engine, they said.

An inquest was scheduled for today. Meanwhile, the charred remains of the boat were towed to Cape Mudge.

Surviving Lewis is his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lewis, Cape Mudge, and two sisters, a graduate nurse and a student, at Vancouver General Hospital.

LUIS APARICIO
...among the fallen

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

COLISEUM, Los Angeles—It was the speed of the "go-go" White Sox against the marvelous quickness and accuracy of Johnny Roseboro's right arm. Johnny won.

And all the experts today are wondering what is to be done about it after the Dodgers became favorites to take the series with their 3-1 victory Sunday which gave them a two-to-one edge in the annual baseball classic. Although stunned after watching the Dodgers parlay a mere five hits and mighty relief pitching by Larry Sherry into Sunday's triumph before a record world series crowd of 92,294 fans, Chicago manager Al Lopez claimed this morning that he would stick with the same strategy that gave Chicago its first American League pennant in 40 years.

That indicated that Senor Lopez planned to have the Sox busy on the piffing path again. This in spite of the fact that Roseboro, called in to fill Roy Campanella's equipment after the legendary Dodger catcher skidded his car off an icy road last winter and ended up with paralyzing injuries, has been knocking off would-be base stealers with the consistency of a champion skeet shot pulverizing clay pigeons.

Roseboro hadn't yielded a stolen base for 26 games before Jim Landis finally pilfered second in the first inning Sunday when Johnny, forced to handle an outside pitch with Nellie Fox on third, decided against risking a throw. That was all for the base, burglars. Three more Sox tried it and Roseboro nabbed them all.

DODGERS FAVORITES TO WIN IT ALL NOW

LOS ANGELES—The Dodgers are on the way to a world series victory according to the odds-makers, who have made L.A. favorites by 2-1 in New York and 11-5 in Las Vegas.

Today Chicago White Sox Early Wynn will go against Dodgers' Roger Craig, the pitchers who opened the series last week.

And among them was Luis Aparicio, reputedly the greatest base stealer of them all.

Although Lopez said the Sox would keep charging, there was a suspicion here that the intellectual Latin was trying to fool a few people.

He must have acquired respect for Roseboro's arm and wondered if it wasn't time to again start using the sacrifice ment, one of the main features of the normally low-scoring pale hose in their march to the AL flag.

Twice Sunday it appeared that Senor Lopez might call for a hunt. Each time he ignored the sacrifice and saw potential rallies snuffed out.

BUT STAKEOUT FAILS

Stolen Art Treasures Recovered In Garage

TORONTO (CP)—Six paintings stolen from the Art Gallery of Toronto three weeks ago were recovered Saturday night in a garage in the city's west-end Parkdale district.

Curator Martin Baldwin said damage to the pictures, cut from their frames in the theft, was "not irreparable." They had an insured value of $640,000.

"The six pictures suffered scratches and abrasions and just how serious the damage will be is a matter of arbitration between the gallery and the insurance people," Mr. Baldwin said.

No arrests have been made. Police Chief James Mackey said an anonymous telephone call was received from a man at 11 p.m. Saturday. A constable and two detectives went to the garage and found the paintings wrapped in heavy white paper.

The paintings, two Rembrandts, two Frans Hals, a Rubens and a Renoir, were taken the night of Sept. 14 by thieves who apparently hid in the gallery before it closed, cut the canvases from their frames and left through an upstairs window, bypassing the burglar alarm system.

Police said they kept the news secret until today because they watched the garage throughout the weekend in the hope that the thief or thieves might return.

They said they had information that the paintings were in the garage moments before the phone call.

Police said no money was paid or deal made to recover the paintings. They refused to give the name or address of the garage owner who, they said, knew nothing about the paintings being there.

After the theft there had been speculation as to whether the thieves would ever be able to dispose of the masterpieces successfully. Guesses at their market value ranged to more than $1,000,000 and theories were expressed that attempts would be made to sell them in Europe.

Other art experts, however, felt it would be difficult if not impossible to dispose of such well-known paintings.

Steel Union Rejects Strike-Ending Terms

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United Steelworkers' Union wage policy committee today rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" an industry proposal for ending the steel strike, now in its 83rd day.

Union President David J. McDonald arranged with the steel industry to resume negotiations later today.

The rejection raised speculation that President Eisenhower will invoke the Taft-Hartley law this week and send the 300,000 strikers back to the mills at least for an 80-day cooling-off period.

In Palm Springs, Calif., today, the President called for swift settlement of both the steel strike and the Atlantic and Gulf coast dock strikes.

The steel strike is in its 83rd day and the dock walkout began five days ago.

"The president believes these two strikes are detrimental to the United States and the American people, and he believes the American people want both of them settled and settled fast," said secretary James Hagerty.

Living Costs At Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living costs continued to rise during August, pushing the consumer price index up to a new high of 127.1 as of Oct. 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

As was the case during July, higher food prices were the main impetus behind the September increase from the previous month's 126.4, also a record.

The rent section of the index was unchanged from a month earlier but home-ownership cost a little more as a result of property tax changes, the bureau said.

There were also slight increases in index sections covering clothing, attributed to higher prices for footwear, piece goods, men's hats and sweaters, and household operation, as a result of higher prices for coal, some furniture items and household utensils and equipment.

OLD PEAK TOPPED

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, had risen during July past the previous record of 126.3, reached Nov. 1, 1958. It went up a further seven-tenths of a point in August.

The bureau said the 2.7 cent rise in the food component of the index during August to 122.4 was almost all seasonal. It said it is also estimated that of the 1 per cent increase in the consumer price index during the two months, approximately two per cent was seasonal.

The index was 1.5 percentage points higher Sept. 1 than a year earlier, when it stood at 125.6.

FOOD GOES UP

Reflected in the food component were higher prices for beef, eggs, coffee, lettuce and celery, and declines for tomatoes and potatoes.

Wholesale prices were also up in August.

GAME ANIMALS FLEEING FIRE

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP)—Herd of elephants, lions and other big game today fled in the path of a 25-mile-long wall of flame sweeping across the ranch country of southeast Rhodesia.

The fire, largest in Southern Rhodesia's history, already has burned out 100,000 acres of ranchland and ranchers today planned to evacuate thousands of head of stock from a further 200,000 acres threatened.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God, when we, in the Holy Sacrament, commemorate the death of Thy dear Son and receive the blessed communion, grant that we may approach the holy table with true repentance, stout faith, deep thankfulness, and abiding love. Help us bear one another's burdens in perfect good will, that Thy peace which surpasses human thought may keep us faithful to Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

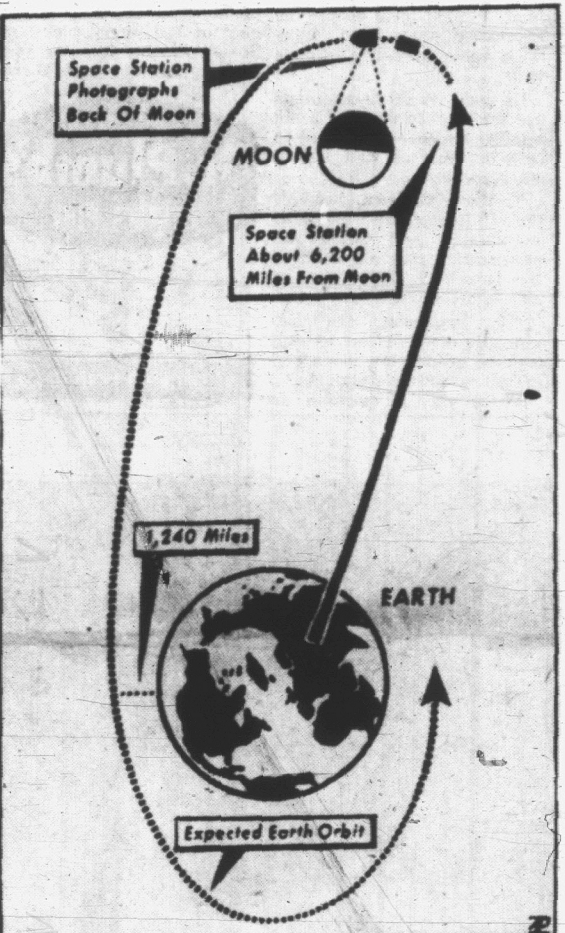

Hope that thing buzzin' aroun' th' moon doesn't rock it.

Round-the-Moon Probe Nearing Its Objective

Expected track of moon rocket

Reds May Get Lunar Pictures Early Tuesday

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union's third lunar rocket was more than 175,000 miles above the Atlantic Ocean and only 63,000 miles from the moon tonight, on course and ready to take man's first photographs of the moon's far side Tuesday.

Tass news agency said the rocket was steadily nearing the crucial lunar turn it must negotiate to enter its planned huge orbit around the earth and the moon.

One Russian scientist said the new "space laboratory" had paved the way for flights to Mars and Venus "in the immediate future."

Tass reported that at 10 p.m. Moscow time the rocket's co-ordinates were 20 degrees 40 minutes south latitude and 21 degrees 30 minutes west longitude, by which time it hurtled 284,000 kilometers (175,364 miles) into space.

"The movement of the rocket continues exactly along the plotted orbit," Tass said.

EVERYTHING WORKING

The report added that judging by preliminary processing of telemetric information sent back from the rocket Sunday, it had been established that "the systems of thermo-control, power feed and the apparatus for scientific research fitted in the automatic interplanetary station are functioning normally."

Slowed by the relentless gravitational tug of the earth, the flying laboratory should come within 4,350 miles of the moon at 6 a.m. PST Tuesday.

As it approached the moon, the interplanetary station, as the Russians call it, separated from the last stage of the cosmic rocket that launched it Sunday, Tass added.

MOVING SLOWLY

Tass said the apparatus is moving toward the moon more slowly than the first and second luniks. This is to enable it to pass round the moon and be pulled back to earth instead of flying off into space as did the first moon shot last January.

The unmanned space station has a camera aboard. Its pictures are to be translated into radio signals which in turn will be sent back to the earth.

An unnamed astronomer declared triumphantly over Moscow Radio:

"It is now a new moon and that means that the other side of the moon is brightly lighted by the rays of the sun. What lies there? Soviet scientists will have the reply to this question before long."

RUSSIA TO JOIN U.S. AGAINST RED CHINA?

LONDON (Reuters) — British philosopher Bertrand Russell said today that fear of China might lead the United States and Russia to form an alliance.

This alliance in effect would be a world government which might precede a true world government.

Russell described an American-Russian alliance as "a possibility—not a probability."

"It is possible because of fear of China by both. No one else would be able to interfere. The Russians would probably ask for Poland to take part and the Americans, if they were very kind to us, might ask for the United Kingdom to be included."

U.S. Economy Continues In High Gear

NEW YORK (AP)—

United States economy still rolling in high gear this week despite a wave of crippling strikes and a mild recession.

Strikes, which have been confined to the steel, glass and copper industries, posed the top problem.

There was the steel strike affecting about 70,000 workers, about 5,000 dockworkers in the Gulf and Atlantic coasts walked out, leaving cargo vessels stranded in port. Also on strike were 30,000 copper, lead and zinc workers, 17,000 truck packers and 15,000 west coast ship repair workers. A local cat strike closed all 12 plants, three of which employ 45,000 workers, and a seven-day strike of the 14,000 glass workers.

SEE NEW HIGH

Business in the U.S. once the strikes are over, run its course, the economy might well reach new highs. Some forecasters are now looking for a mild recession.

Credit is tight, and there isn't enough money to lend to the business community. If those who have money have to pay high interest rates, and if they are paying plenty right now.

The consumer, however, is still running on credit. In fact, the total amount of credit outstanding in the U.S. is now $100 billion, a new high of more than $100 billion.

The U.S. government, however, is not running on credit. It is running on its own money. The treasury has had to pay since 1929.

FIRST in lead and supplies division to an "over the top" in Community Chest drive this year was Kelly Douglas Ltd., which received a special award from the Chest. Manager Henry Taunton and in-plant campaigner John Daniel received award from Chest chairman Eric Mallett, right. Drive, which started Sunday, is now close to $38,000 mark. Labor Troubles Threaten Car Industry Sales Boom

Two weeks of the strike, which has cut the production of cars, has not yet started Sunday, is now close to $38,000 mark. Objective is $525,000 from Greater Victoria. Five firms have now qualified for awards by 100 per cent employee participation.

The production losses could mean that some dealers will have only one car for a while in their showrooms. Some for sale, until full production can be resumed.

But the steel workers' strike is a greater threat to the car industry because it could mean that some dealers will have only one car for a while in their showrooms. Some for sale, until full production can be resumed.

Went's Automotive Reports, industry agency for the industry, said the labor troubles could cut the industry's goal of 64,000 new cars for October in half.

Went's said the industry produced a total of 236,671 new 1959 model cars up to last Friday.

Canada Cannot Fill U.S. Need Of Natural Gas

WASHINGTON (AP)—

American gas consumers must look to gas produced from wells in the United States for much of their future supply.

This is the belief of the Phillips Petroleum Company executive, who said last week before the Federal Power Commission in a gas rate argument.

If there were a cheap substitute for natural gas available, the statement said, "obviously we would not have to worry about a future supply of gas."

But, he said, there is no such substitute.

"Our evidence was unchallenged that, although the vast supplies of oil shale, tar sands and foreign oil are available for future use of the motorists and other users of oil products, they offer no supply for the gas consumer in competition with pipelines."

Canada's proven gas reserves, Phillips counsel said, are about 10 per cent of those of the U.S. The population also is about 10 per cent and its industry is growing rapidly.

"We will get some gas from Canada, but it will be insignificant as compared to our tremendous demand," the commission was told.

"So it is clear that the gas consumers of the United States must look to gas produced from wells in the United States."

MONTE ROBERTS

They said it couldn't be done. Hah, I said, who are they who said it couldn't be done? Anybody, I said, can watch a world series baseball game and a National Football League game at one and the same time.

They said it couldn't be done, so yesterday I set out to prove it could be done.

So I took our small-type carryable TV set, and I carried it over to a friend's house.

And at 12.45, we tuned in the world series game on one set.

And at 1.30 p.m., we tuned in the NFL game on the OTHER set.

(It was fortunate for us the baseball and the football were on different channels, otherwise it is hard to say what might have happened.)

At 1.00 p.m., after a few pre-game ceremonies, the Chicago White Sox and the Los Angeles Dodgers began pitching small white round leather-covered spheroids at each other.

At 1.30 p.m. (on another set, remember, and another channel), the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams began pitching rather larger but still white leather-covered although elongated spheroids at each other.

This, I said to myself and all those within hearing distance, is a day for the die-in-the-wool sports fan to long remember.

"Look," I cried, "there is the White Sox pitcher Dick Donovan throwing a slider just over the corner, knee high."

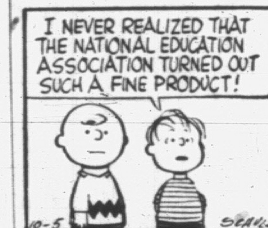

And then, "Look, look," I shouted, "there is the San Francisco pitcher, Don Drysdale, throwing a screen pass to Joe Perry."

"Don't miss this," I screamed. "See how Jim Landis fielded that deep punt from the Rams' 20-yard line."

"Look, look, look," I admonished my friends. "See how Wade fired that double play ball from the pocket after faking a hand-off to the third baseman."

Just seconds later, I was on my feet, rooting for Y. A. Tittle as he hit the left-field screen at the Los Angeles Coliseum with a perfect three-cushion canon that went through the house before knocking off the balls and winding up as a ringer forcing a fee-off under the basket with a left-right combination for a photo-finish with deuces wild and a half-nelson.

They said it couldn't be done.

Third Term Try Made Official By Mayor Scurrah

Mayor Percy Scurrah announced over the weekend he will stand for re-election this December in a bid for a third term as Victoria's chief magistrate.

Ex-alderman J. Donald Smith, an MLA for Victoria, who announced his candidacy for the mayoralty several weeks ago, immediately issued his campaign platform.

Mayor Scurrah, who had no opposition to his election two years ago, said he will issue his platform later.

The mayor's entry into the election battle was expected for some time. At present, the betting in City Hall corridors is that the contest will be a straight two-man fight.

However, there is a possibility of a "dark horse" candidate making a late entry into the race before nomination day in December.

Mr. Smith's platform said he will campaign for establishment of a downtown parking commission "designed to enable the business firms and merchants to solve their own parking problems."

He said he would fight to defeat the View Street parking bylaw.

INCENTIVE PLAN
Mr. Smith's other campaign plans are: a tax incentive plan for home improvements; establishment of a Recreation Commission to encourage provision of more skating and swimming facilities and a recreational hall for old age pensioners; early establishment of a "full-fledged university for Victoria."

Improved civic services without "ill-considered, adventurous schemes such as the 'house moving project' at the new fire hall site which cost taxpayers $150,000 more than was necessary"; efforts to have a larger portion of education costs borne by the senior governments, and a "hold-the-line" policy on property taxes.

RED FEATHER DRIVE LAGS
Total receipts in the Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign reached $58,700 at noon today.

"We are getting an excellent response from employees of local firms," campaign chairman Eric Mallett said. "But our total receipts are behind those of last year."

WINDSHIELD WIPING AIDS DRIVE
Drivers Cross at Chest

Two angry motorists complained to the Community Chest executive today about the windshield washing drive put on by 60 girls belonging to the Victoria YWCA Y-Teen Club Saturday.

But they were only two among hundreds of Victoria car-owners who had their windows washed without the asking—and liked it.

After cleaning the windshield the girls left a "summons" in the wiper urging the owner to give his full share to the Community Chest.

"I think it is an infernal cheek for a bunch of amateur window-washers to crawl all over my car," complained one of the dissenters.

"I had my windshield washed twice within the hour, the wiper hasn't worked since and the girls left big fingerprints all over the bodywork."

"They should at least have asked my permission first."

The other dissenter said the window washing was "amateurish" and the blue summonses sticking in the wiper gave him "a severe shock."

"This is impertinent interference with private property," he complained in a letter to Eric Mallett, campaign chairman.

"We are sorry for any offence caused," Mr. Mallett said, "but I am happy to say the majority of motorists regarded it as a cute gimmick."

The Y-Teen girls distributed 3,500 blue "summons" throughout the day.

Ross Bay Cemetery May Require $250,000 Fund

New regulations for municipal cemeteries may force Victoria to set up a $250,000 reserve fund for perpetual maintenance of Ross Bay Cemetery.

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot today told the city's cemetery committee the Public Utilities Commission proposes a change "that is sensible policy for the province but a punch in the nose for Victoria."

A letter from the PUC, which controls cemeteries in B.C., indicated that it intends to press for legislation which would force all municipal cemeteries to raise their maintenance standards to those imposed on commercial burial parks.

"This is serious," said Ald. Proudfoot. "It is going to cost the city thousands and thousands of dollars. We just haven't got the money and we may have to go all the way to the cabinet to clear this up."

The problem, he said, is that Ross Bay Cemetery already is "90 per cent filled." The 70-year-old cemetery has about 600 plots to each acre.

The PUC indicated that if expected municipalities would have to spend about $500 an acre each year to equal the commercial cemeteries' standards.

Ald. Proudfoot said that would mean a fund totalling about $250,000 would be needed to provide enough interest revenue each year to care for Ross Bay Cemetery's 22½ acres.

Churches, DVA Asked to Assist

He argued that various churches and the department of veterans' affairs, which received substantial "donations" of the cemetery property for denominational and soldiers' areas, should be compelled to raise money for their sections.

"I don't see how the churches can be made responsible for those graves," said Ald. M. H. Mooney.

"Why not?" shot back Ald. Proudfoot. "They made a lot of money selling those plots."

Committee was told that the city still owned the entire property and although the churches agreed to share costs of certain work, under an 1879 statute, this was never done.

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren said a legal opinion had been obtained that held the churches were not legally responsible for the "donated" sections.

"Well if they are not legally responsible, they certainly are morally responsible," said Ald. Proudfoot.

West Coast Polio Outbreak Controlled

An outbreak of polio on the west coast of Vancouver Island apparently has been limited to two cases, Indian health service officials reported today.

There is no fear of an epidemic.

Two Indian children, a boy of 10 and a girl of six, died of polio at Esperanza Hospital Friday and Saturday, and it was feared other Indians at the village of Queen's Cove and Friendly Cove had the disease.

Examination has revealed no other cases. A girl of 20, in hospital and believed suffering from polio, had another disease altogether, it was reported.

Fit Lt. Derek Waller, RCAF medical officer, and Dr. Nick Schmidt, Indian affairs branch, flew to Esperanza Saturday at the request of Dr. Herman McLean, at Esperanza

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Household goods valued at more than $750 were stolen from a Victoria home under construction Saturday night.

F. G. Rainsford, 1781 Veda Place, told police someone went to his nearly finished house at 1730 Gonzales, got in by way of an unlocked door or by using a pass key, and stole two carpets worth $600, a four-poster double bed with spring-filled mattress and vanity mirror valued at $150, and six medicine chest mirrors.

Remaining furnishings were removed by Mr. Rainsford for safekeeping.

Lieut. David Avery, navigating officer on the minesweeper HMCS Fortune based at Esquimalt, is one of two new aides-de-camp appointed to Governor-General Vanier.

The other aide is Flight Lieut. Paul E. Hinch of Montreal, former air cadet liaison officer at RCAF Station Torbay, Newfoundland.

Parksville motorist Harvey Bruce Dobbyn, 30, was admitted to Jubilee Hospital Sunday night after the car he was driving ripped out a checker-board sign on Patricia Bay Highway at Sidney about 7 p.m.

The hospital said Dobbyn was treated for suspected rib fractures.

Sidney RCMP said Dobbyn drove east on Mills Road and failed to make a turn at the highway. The car skidded, bounced over a ditch and collided with the sign and a fence.

News Singh, 2912 Prior, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for a cut jaw received in a traffic accident early Sunday.

Guirdev Singh, 1275 Mitchell, $35 and licence suspension for speeding over 30.

Florence Phillips, Sidney, $35 for careless driving.

A car that ran out of gas on Cormorant Street ran into trouble on Store Street minutes later Saturday night.

Police said the driver was being assisted by two friends who pushed the car west on Cormorant, smack into the E and N Railway Station.

The two friends were charged with being intoxicated in a public place.

Two young Victoria children were released from Royal Jubilee Hospital Saturday after being treated for an overdose of baby aspirin.

Laurey Cardiff, 2, had his stomach pumped and brother Leonard, 14 months, was examined after being taken to hospital by police at the request of their mother, Mrs. L. R. Cardiff.

Federal Superannuates will meet in the YMCA rooms on Friday.

Damage was negligible when an electric drill started a fire in a garage at the home of David R. McAdams, 2150 Kings, at 8 p.m. Sunday.

A group of youths had been working there converting an old car into a hotrod.

Toronto's Art Treasure Found

TORONTO (CP) — Six paintings stolen from the Art Gallery of Toronto three weeks ago were recovered Saturday night in a garage in the city's west-end Parkdale district.

Curator Martin Baldwin said damage to the pictures, cut from their frames in the theft, was "not irreparable." They had an insured value of $640,000.

"The six pictures suffered scratches and abrasions and just how serious the damage will be is a matter of arbitration between the gallery and the insurance people," Mr. Baldwin said.

No arrests have been made. Police Chief James Mackey said an anonymous telephone call was received from a man

FLEEING FIRE

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP) — Herds of elephants, lions and other big game today fled in the path of a 25-mile-long wall of flame sweeping across the ranch country of southeast Rhodesia.

The fire, largest in Southern Rhodesia's history, already has burned out 100,000 acres of ranch-land and ranchers today planned to evacuate thousands of head of stock from a further 200,000 acres threatened.

Steel Union Rejects Strike-Ending Terms

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The United Steelworkers' Union wage policy committee today rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" an industry proposal for ending the steel strike, now in its 83rd day.

Union President David J. McDonald arranged with the steel industry to resume negotiations later today.

The rejection raised speculation that President Eisenhower will invoke the Taft-Hartley law this week and send the 500,000 strikers back

Its Objective

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union's third lunar rocket was more than 175,000 miles above the Atlantic Ocean and only 63,000 miles from the moon tonight, on course and ready to take man's first photographs of the moon's far side Tuesday.

Living Costs
At Peak

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian living costs continued to rise during August, pushing the consumer price index up to a new high of 127.1 as of Oct. 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

As was the case during July higher food prices were the main impetus behind the September increase from the previous month's 126.4, also a record.

The rent section of the index was unchanged from a month earlier but home-ownership cost a little more as a result of property tax changes, the bureau said.

There were also slight increases in index sections covering clothing, attributed to higher prices for footwear, piece goods, men's hats and sweaters, and household operation, as a result of higher prices for coal, some furniture items and household utensils and equipment.

OLD PEAK TOPPED

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, had risen during July past the previous record of 126.3, reached Nov. 1, 1958. It went up a further seven-tenths of a point in August.

The bureau said the 2.7 cent rise in the food component of the index during August to 122.4 was almost all seasonal. It said it is also estimated that of the 1 per cent increase in the consumer price index during the two months, approximately 8 per cent was seasonal.

The index was 1.5 per cent higher Sept. 1 than a year earlier, when it stood at 125.6.

The August rise in living costs followed a July increase in wage figures.

FOOD GOES UP

Reflected in the food component were higher prices for beef, eggs, coffee, lettuce and celery, and declines for tomatoes and potatoes.

Wholesale prices were also up in August.

Tass news agency said the rocket was steadily nearing the crucial lunar turn it must negotiate to enter its planned huge orbit around the earth and the moon.

One Russian scientist said the new "space laboratory" had paved the way for flights to Mars and Venus "in the immediate future."

Tass reported that at 10 p.m. Moscow time the rocket's co-ordinates were 20 degrees 40 minutes south latitude and 21 degrees 30 minutes west longitude, by which time it hurtled 284,000 kilometers (175,364 miles) into space.

"The movement of the rocket continues exactly along the plotted orbit," Tass said.

EVERYTHING WORKING

The report added that judging by preliminary processing of telemetric information sent back from the rocket Sunday, it had been established that "the systems of thermo-control, power feed and the apparatus for scientific research fitted in the automatic interplanetary station are functioning normally."

Slowed by the relentless gravitational tug of the earth, the flying laboratory should come within 4,350 miles of the moon at 6 a.m. PST Tuesday.

As it approached the moon, the interplanetary station, as the Russians call it, separated from the last stage of the cosmic rocket that launched it Sunday, Tass added.

MOVING SLOWLY

Tass said the apparatus is moving toward the moon more slowly than the first and second launches. This is to enable it to pass round the moon and be pulled back to earth instead of flying off into space as did the first moon shot last January.

The unmanned space station has a camera aboard. Its pictures are to be translated into radio signals which in turn will be sent back to the earth.

An unnamed astronomer declared triumphantly over Moscow Radio:

"It is now a new moon and that means that the other side of the moon is brightly lighted by the rays of the sun. What lies there? Soviet scientists will have the reply to this question before long."

'CRASH' OVER DUNCAN

Women Drivers
In Space Ships?

(From Duncan Bureau)

A Duncan man who reported an "explosion in the skies" over Crofton on the night of Sept. 26 now believes it was a collision of two space ships.

With the sighting here last Wednesday night of "flying saucers" by 11 district residents, Vernon Stanley-Jones of Richards Trail is firmly convinced the explosion he saw and reported to the RCMP was definitely a crash of two ships from outer space.

Mr. Stanley-Jones and his son, Chris, 14, were driving up Lakes Road when they saw "a bright red flash and glow in the sky over Richards Mountain toward Crofton." Mr. Stanley-Jones said he at first thought the Crofton pulp mill had exploded.

"It was fire red, so I knew it wasn't lightning," he said. He reported the incident to the Duncan RCMP who were unable to trace any fires or explosions in the area.

Flying objects seen here last Wednesday night, he now believes, were space ships searching for the wreckage of the two craft which he believes collided over Crofton four nights earlier.

"I believe the objects these people saw were 'space ships' looking for the wreckage of the two which crashed. After all, if any of our aircraft go down, don't we send out planes and ships to search for survivors and wreckage?" he asked.

Mr. Stanley-Jones, who has done considerable research on "unidentified flying objects," said he believes "there is something out there we don't know about. We aren't the only people in the universe. There are millions of worlds. Why should we be the only ones? These objects have been reported all over the world for years."

He said he saw some flying saucers himself, two years ago.

Lead Series
By 3 to 1

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Dodgers grabbed a commanding 3-1 lead in the world series today, taking advantage of Chicago mistakes and a booming home run by Gil Hodges to defeat the White Sox 5-4.

Another sellout crowd of over 92,000 fans saw Hodges connect for the game-winning homer in the bottom of the eighth. It was the first Los Angeles hit since the third inning, when Dodgers jumped on Chicago starter Early Wynn to score four runs.

STRANDED DUCKS

The White Sox, particularly ineffective with men on bases for the second straight game, finally broke the magic spell of Johnny Craig in the seventh, when they scored four runs to tie the game.

heroes, it was Chicago's inept defence and inability to connect in the clutch that decided the outcome.

White Sox committed all three of their errors—by Luis Aparicio, Jim Landis and Lollar—during the four-run Dodger uprising in the third inning.

Chicago out-hit their National League rivals 10-9.

field barrier—a three-run blast—tied the game, and chased Craig.

It marked the second time in this best-of-seven classic that Craig was chased from the mound. He was the starter, and loser, when Chicago scored its 11-0 victory in the opening game.

This time, however, youthful Larry Sherry saved Craig from suffering defeat. Sherry, who came on in the eighth, was the winner.

Gerry Staley, the last of four Chicago pitchers, was the loser. Dodgers damaged Chicago's hopes in the first three innings. Twice—in the first and third frames—White Sox pushed runners on the bases with only one out but each time the Dodgers snuffed out the rallies with double plays.

Roseboro's Arm
Knocks the 'Go'
Out of ChicagoBy DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

COLISEUM, Los Angeles—It was the speed of the "go-go" White Sox against the marvelous quickness and accuracy of Johnny Roseboro's right arm. Johnny won.

And all the experts today are wondering what is to be done about it after the Dodgers became favorites to take the series with their 3-1 victory Sunday which gave them a two-to-one edge in the annual baseball classic.

Although stunned after watching the Dodgers parlay a mere five hits and mighty relief pitching by Larry Sherry into Sunday's triumph before a record world series crowd of 92,294 fans, Chicago manager Al Lopez claimed this morning that he would stick with the same strategy that gave Chicago its first American League pennant, in 40 years.

That indicated that Senor Lopez planned to have the Sox busy on the piffing path again. This in spite of the fact that Roseboro, called in to fill Roy Campanella's equipment after the legendary Dodger catcher skidded his car off an icy road last winter and ended up with paralyzing injuries, has been knocking off would-be base-stealers with the consistency of a champion skeet shot pulverizing clay pigeons.

Roseboro hadn't yielded a stolen base for 26 games before Jim Landis finally pilfered second in the first inning Sunday when Johnny, forced to handle an outside pitch with Nellie Fox on third, decided against risking a throw. That was all for the base burglars. Three more Sox tried it and Roseboro nabbed them all.

And among them was Luis Aparicio, reputedly the greatest base stealer of them all. Although Lopez said the Sox would keep charging, there was a suspicion here that the

RUSSIA TO JOIN U.S.
AGAINST RED CHINA?

LONDON (Reuters) — British philosopher Bertrand Russell said today that fear of China might lead the United States and Russia to form an alliance.

This alliance in effect would be a world government which might precede a true world government.

Russell described an American-Russian alliance as "a possibility—not a probability."

"It is possible because of fear of China by both. No one else would be able to interfere. The Russians would probably ask for Poland to take part and the Americans, if they were very kind to us, might ask for the United Kingdom to be included."
